O'DANIEL WINS IN TEXAS; PURGE FIZZLES AGAIN

Last Hope of Major Success Blasted.

Leads by 12,256 Votes

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 23 (AP).—Sen. W. Lee [Pappy] O'Daniel tonight was assured of renomination for a full six year term in the United States senate, on the basis of unofficial returns in yesterday's runoff primary. Democratic nomination is tantamount to election in Texas. O'Daniel was leading James V. Allred, former governor, by 12,256 votes. He carried 176 counties to Allred's 76. The Texas election bureau estimated tonight that O'Daniel would poll 452,000 votes to 438,000 for Allred.

Sen. W. L. O'Daniel [top] and James V. Allred.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—The renomination of Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel in the Texas runoff election yesterday eliminated the last possibility of a major success in the primaries by the Roosevelt administration, the Willkieites, and the Communists in their campaign to purge congress of its prewar noninterventionists and anti-New Dealers.

That the purge Camorra already has turned its attention to the November general election, however, is indicated by the filing of financial reports with the clerk of the house of representatives by two of the largest Communist front political committees—Citizens for Victory and the Union for Democratic Action.

Prosecution Refused.

When Rep. Cliff Clevenger [R., O.] complained in July that these outfits were violating the corrupt practices act and called upon Attorney General Francis Biddle to prosecute them, Biddle replied that the law requiring the filing of financial statements applies to political committees engaged in "election" but not in "primary" campaigns. Hence the filing of reports by the two purge organizations indicates that their operations will continue thru the election campaign.

The renomination of Sen. O'Daniel was almost as humiliating a rebuff to the New Dealers and their Communist allies as the renomination of Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] in President Roosevelt's home district. President Roosevelt personally induced former Gov. James V. Allred, whom he had appointed to the federal District court, to resign and run against O'Daniel for the Democratic senate nomination, which in Texas is equivalent to election.

One of Three on Blacklist.

When O'Daniel failed by a slender margin to win the nomination in a three cornered race with Allred and former Gov. Dan Moody, the President instructed his lieutenants to redouble their efforts against O'Daniel in the runoff election.

REPUBLICANS OF N. Y. WILL CONVENE TODAY TO NOMINATE DEWEY

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 23 [Special].—Republican delegates gathered here today, prepared to nominate Thomas E. Dewey the Republican candidate for governor at the opening of the state convention tomorrow. Dewey, former rackets busting prosecutor, was the Republican nominee in 1938 and lost by the slimmest of margins.

Party leaders today decided to break the tradition of naming their candidate on the final day, which would be Tuesday. Dewey will accept the nomination in a speech at 9:15 p. m. in which he is expected to outline New York's rôle in the war and, to a certain extent, the nation's rôle in the war.

GERMANS MAKE NEW CROSSING OF DON RIVER

MOSCOW, Aug. 24 [Monday]—(AP).—A fierce give and take battle was in progress along the Don river northwest of Stalingrad, the soviet midnight communique indicated today, asserting the Russians had driven the Germans from some positions but that the enemy had effected a new crossing of the river.

The communique also acknowledged the Germans had made some progress northwest of Kotelnikovo, the southern arm of the Nazi twin thrust at Stalingrad.

"In the area of Kletskaya our troops fought active operations and improved their positions," the communique said of the Don bend fighting. "Guardsmen of 'X' unit drove the Germans out of a number of populated places."

Get Tanks Across River.

The Russians said, however, that in this area battles continued for Don river crossings and added:

"On one sector the enemy was able to get across troops and tanks and our troops are fighting fierce battles with these enemy groups."

An earlier report to the army newspaper, Red Star, said the Russians had succeeded in smashing one German attempt to make a new crossing and the Germans had lost more than 1,000 men.

"The enemy is increasing his pressure in the center of the Don bend," the paper said, "but soviet troops are firmly holding positions captured a few days ago."

The communique also spoke of heavy fighting there against an Italian division, declaring that at least half of this division had been killed.

Battle Near Kotelnikovo.

Speaking of the southern prong of the battle for Stalingrad, the communique said:

"In the area northeast of Kotelnikovo our troops fought intensive battles with large tank and infantry forces. On various sectors the Germans, at the cost of tremendous losses, managed to advance."

Heavy fighting also continued south of Krasnodar, in the Caucasus, where the Germans are trying to drive thru to the Black sea, and southeast of Pyatigorsk, spearhead of the German thrust toward the Grozny oil field 100 miles to the southeast.

There was no indication, however, that the Germans had made any progress in either of these sectors.

Repulse German Attack.

In the Krasnodar sector, the communique said, one Russian detachment "repulsed a strong German attack and inflicted heavy losses on the enemy."

Of the Pyatigorsk region, it said simply that "our units fought defensive engagements with enemy tanks and motorized infantry."

Fresh Nazi forces brought out of reserve 'pools or shifted from other sectors were piled steadily into the tense battle for Stalingrad in which Hitler's command desperately hopes

CANADIAN PUBLISHER, LEADER OF RAID ON DIEPPE, NAZI PRISONER

BERLIN, Aug. 23 [from German broadcasts] (AP).—The Berlin radio announced today that Brigadier W. W. Southam, of Toronto, Ont., was captured with 104 other British officers during the allied raid on Dieppe on Wednesday.

[Brigadier Southam directed the main Canadian attack on the channel town from the start to the finish of the nine hour raid. In civilian life Southam was vice president and managing director of the Southam press of Toronto, publisher of a number of newspapers.]

Killed in Action.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 23 (AP).—Capt. Erskine Robert Eaton, 27 years old, son of Col. and Mrs. R. Y. Eaton, was killed in action during the raid on Dieppe, his family here has been officially advised. Capt. Eaton was an internationally known horseman. He went to Europe as a member of the Canadian army horse show team in 1931.

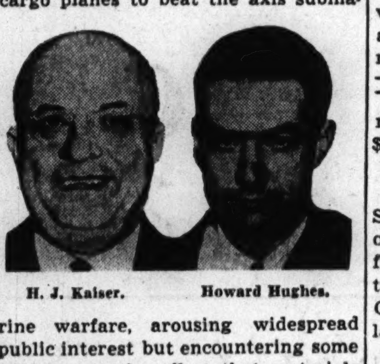
Kaiser's Plane Project Backed by Millionaire

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 23 (AP).—Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder, announced tonight he had teamed with Howard Hughes, multimillionaire Hollywood airplane designer, speed flyer and film producer, in a program to build 500 cargo airplanes.

After conferring here several days, Kaiser announced, the two men have reached an agreement "to go forward together and jointly, on an equal basis, in fulfillment of the most ambitious aviation program the world has ever known."

Encounters Some Opposition.

Kaiser recently explained to Washington officials his plan for building cargo planes to beat the axis submarine warfare, arousing widespread public interest but encountering some criticism to the effect that materials were not available.



H. J. Kaiser. Howard Hughes.

After leaving Washington, it was understood, Kaiser sought out Hughes, who had been working on a guarded military project of his own at the Hughes airplane factory somewhere in southern California.

A Kaiser spokesman said the shipbuilder was greatly impressed by Hughes' knowledge of aero-dynamics and aircraft design as well as by Hughes' amazing flights from Los Angeles to New York in 7 hours 20 minutes, and around the world in 3 days 19 hours. The Los Angeles-New York record, which was made seven years ago in a ship of Hughes' own design, still stands.

Huge Passenger Plane.

Hughes enters the combination fresh from the success of conceiving and planning a huge passenger plane, the Constellation, now being produced under contract to Hughes at the Lockheed Aircraft corporation plant in Burbank, Cal.

Hughes not only planned the Constellation, but signed a personal commitment with Lockheed for almost $20,000,000 for 40 of the ships.

Builds Liberty Ship in 35 Days.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 23 (AP).—Oregon Shipbuilding corporation trimmed one day off its own national record for Liberty ship construction with the launching today of the S. S. Gideon Welles 35 days after keel-laying.

Speaking at the launching ceremony, Albert Bauer, manager of the Henry J. Kaiser yard, said "the day is fast approaching when we will see ships leaving our outfitting docks ready for service in 30 days."

MᴬᶜARTHUR'S FLYERS DOWN 13 JAP PLANES WITHOUT LOSING ONE

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 24 [Monday]—(AP).—Forty-seven Japanese planes, including 27 heavy bombers, staged a raid on the airdrome at Darwin Sunday, but were held to only slight damage by the brilliant work of allied fighters, who shot down four of the attacking bombers and nine Zero fighter escort planes, allied headquarters announced today. The defenders did not lose a single craft.

The fact that the allied P-40s intercepted the Japs at 25,000 feet made their feat remarkable, it was said.

The allies, in addition to frustrating the Japanese attack, also took the initiative by bombing enemy positions in the northern end of the Solomon Island group. They bombed buildings in the wharf area along Buka passage, the narrow strait which separates the islands of Buka and Bougainville. The results were not observed.

BULLETS SWEEP 2 MILE AREA AT MITCHEL FIELD

Mitchel Field, N. Y., Aug. 23 (AP).—The machine gun on an airplane about to land at Mitchel field accidentally discharged today, hurling bullets more than two miles. The base public relations office said of the accident:

"An accidental burst of machine gunfire from an airplane landing at Mitchel field Sunday morning sent bullets flying more than two miles, some of them landing on property occupied by Frank Roschilla of 36 Elm avenue, Hempstead, on the south side of the army air base."

The fire was due, according to the base public relations officer, to a temporary mechanical failure. The army would give out no further details.

'Stop! Stop!!' A Lady Driver Does—on Track

Mrs. Mae Watson, 42 years old, was receiving congratulations last night upon her good fortune in stepping out of her car before a Burlington railroad streamliner, the Zephyr, knocked it to pieces at the Garfield street crossing in Hinsdale. She wasn't accepting them.

She said she didn't escape anything—and neither did her very good automobile.

Police who arrived after the accident said that Mrs. Watson got out just in time. But she had a different story to tell in her home at 5955 Midway Park.

There's Mix Up at Crossing.

"I was waiting for a freight train to pass," she said. "When the last car was over the three track crossing, I drove on north.

"The watchman began yelling at me to stop. I thought perhaps I'd hit someone or that there was something wrong with my car. So I did what he told me—stopped.

"I opened the door, got out, and asked him what was the matter.

"He said there was a train coming. I looked and, sure enough, there was.

"It was east bound, headed for Chicago. I tried to get somebody to help me push the car off the track, but no one did anything. Finally the train got there and hit it."

Still Can't Find Car Door.

Roy W. Dude, acting captain of the Hinsdale police, said that the Zephyr usually goes thru Hinsdale at a speed of 90 miles an hour. He was able to find most of the car after the accident, except the door that Mrs. Watson said she opened to get out to ask what all the excitement was about.

She is the wife of R. L. Watson, an employé of the Pan-American air lines who is now in Africa.

"I had plenty of time to get across," she said sadly. "If they'd only let me go, I'd still have a car."

99 Per Cent of Camp Grant Soldiers Buy War Bonds

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 23 [Special].—Ninety-nine per cent of the troops at Camp Grant are purchasing war bonds, according to Maj. Harvey E. Wilson, medical replacement center bond officer. Purchases totaled $56,267.15 last week, an increase of $1,992.15 over the previous week.

TROOPS LANDED AT MANY PORTS; RUSHED TO CAMP

Men and Material for Air Forces Also Arrive.

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, Aug. 23 (AP).—The largest American convoy to cross the Atlantic in this war has arrived at many British ports with vast quantities of war materials and crack fighting units obviously eager to "get it over with." The movement of such a mass of men and material was disclosed tonight and gave sharp emphasis to the prospects of a second front in 1942.

Maj. Gen. J. C. H. Lee.

A large proportion of the convoy was composed of men and material for the American air force, which already is active with flying fortress bombers blasting the Nazi transportation system with precision bombing.

Many war experts are looking for an "aerial push" by the American air force and the RAF designed to soften Germany on the ground and in the air for an eventual invasion.

Arrivals "Melt Away."

Despite the great size of the convoy, which was unloaded at many ports, both soldiers and munitions melted rapidly into the interior of England, where the invasion armies are training.

During recent months engineers under Maj. Gen. J. C. H. Lee, chief of supply for American forces in the European theater, have been on a 24 hour a day schedule preparing the huge bases, solving transportation problems and working out plans for the handling of thousands of troops. These bases now are nearing completion and are able to absorb men and materials at a sharply stepped-up pace.

The air force is in a similar position and its striking power can be doubled and redoubled within an extremely short space of time compared to the months of preliminary preparations.

Indians Among Troops.

Sun-browned, war-whooping American soldiers—with some Navajo Indians among them—were included among the arrivals, which embraced every branch of the service for the new striking force being assembled under Lieut. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, commander in chief of American forces in the European theater.

Among the vessels which have been hauling troops there appeared at one British port for the first time a Liberty ship—a heartening sight to Britons, acutely aware of civilian and military privations which are attributed by their leaders to shipping losses.

Nothing but Crack Units.

Army encampments from the eastern seaboard to the great southwest have been represented among recent arrivals.

Their smart appearance and well drilled performance in debarking gave added point to Maj. Gen. Mark Clark's statement that "crack" American units only were being sent to this war front. Clark is commander of all American ground troops in the European theater.

Pvt. Pearce Claude, 22 years old, of Gallup, N. M., a Navajo Indian, declared he and other red skinned warriors were fine fighters but poor sailors.

Another arrival was Pvt. Max P. Pablada, 34, of Los Angeles, Cal., a Filipino whose mother, father, and brother were in a village hundreds of miles north of Manila when the Japanese captured the Philippine capital.

Tribune Man Visits Commando School; Finds It Tough.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The "battle of inoculation" is part of the basic Commando training now in prospect for all American and British troops here. These tests and other phases of swift surprise assaults and evacuation are being taught in special schools to selected privates and noncommissioned officers who are then assigned to impart the methods to other units.

American newspaper men returned today from a several days' visit to the British southern command's weapon training school, where they observed and participated in maneuvers with many a huff and puff.

The maneuvers had a "confidence" test which included two crossings of terrain beset with difficult obstacles and two opposed landings on steep cliffs, also under fire. The battle of inoculation is particularly dramatic, as it means "inoculating" troops against actual bullets.

Like Another Dunkirk.

The correspondents joined a line of 40 British soldiers for a 400 yard trek across sodden beach sands. A few newspaper men thought of it as a second Dunkirk as they set out across the rain and wind swept beach, which was dotted with short wooden posts. The party was continually under the fire of snipers with Bren guns and Vickers machine guns perched at the top and bottom of a small hill. Grenades and land mines added to the reality.

The live ammunition was carefully directed so as not to injure the marchers as long as they stayed in line, but they were given a taste of battle hazard and din. Tracer bullets flicked like lethal fireflies in front and behind the marchers and over their heads, finishing their trajectories in lashing the waves beyond. These and other bullets were never more than a few feet from the marchers; the exploding grenades and land mines were more distant.

Midway in the march came an order to fall flat. All did with alacrity, their rifles buried in the wet sand as a Vickers gun sprayed a bullet path at the front and rear. They rose and completed their march with rifle bullets winging by as caution to keep their line straight. The march seemed five miles.

"How Close Death Can Be."

The young British lieutenant who directed the sortie kept shouting, "The crookedest damn line I ever saw," but said afterward that the test could not completely simulate a battle because the men knew the bullets were not aimed at them.

"However, it shows how close death can be and teaches one to be careful and alert in battle," he said. "An American here recently suffered three broken ribs when he came too near a land mine in a test."

The obstacle tests involved wading thru water, climbing precarious swaying ladders, crossing narrow bridges, vaulting a hedge, crawling thru barbed wire, scaling a high wall, swinging by a rope over a chasm, racing over wooden pickets partly submerged in water, climbing a hill, charging with bayonets, falling to the ground and firing five rounds at targets, and climbing a 75 foot cliff.

Gets His Anthems Mixed.

The obstacle course is 600 yards long and the average time for covering it is eight minutes. Even the most adventurous reporter did not attempt the entire course, but a few newspaper men swung over the chasm on ropes—with a net result of the loss of two watches and a pencil.

In one opposed landing two small boatloads of soldiers crossed a rough bay under a covering of rifle, machine gun, and grenade fire, landed and climbed high rocks, seized a pill box, and swiftly returned.

During their stay the reporters were guests one night at the sergeants' mess. The Britishers announced that a pianist would play the "Star Spangled Banner." The Americans stood stiffly at attention and did not indicate that the pianist actually played "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

On the back page of today's issue appears a new and detailed color map of the Solomon Islands, several of which have been recaptured by American forces in a major counteroffensive launched against the Japanese on Aug. 7.

NAZIS MAKE NEW GAINS IN 2 AREAS NEAR STALINGRAD

Everywhere the Russians fought on stubbornly against every enemy thrust, exacting a mounting toll of casualties in men and machines.

The Russians have not said officially how near the battle is to Stalingrad, but at one point in the Don elbow, Stalingrad is only 45 miles away. It appeared likely that the Germans were as close with the southern arm of their vast nutcracker.

The Germans were making their greatest effort before Stalingrad where success would give them one of their ultimate objectives for the entire 1942 campaign as waged so far.

Stalingrad with its vast plants which now produce tanks, its oil refineries, and numerous other industrial plants is a rich prize in itself. But even more important is its location on the Volga, Russia's main street along which the oil of Baku and the allied supplies shipped by way of the Persian gulf reach central Russia.

Germans Ignore Losses.

The Germans used a full array of bombers, tanks, mobile artillery and motorized infantry northeast of Kotelnikovo where they were ignoring their own losses and attempting with all means to plunge forward to the lower Volga.

The Russians defended themselves under agonizing conditions with a hot west wind and shifting brushfires showering them with ashes and embers. The narrow streams in that region were dried up and the wells were few and far apart.

The Germans used the fires as a screen for mechanized attacks but the Russians kept their heads above their trenches even while the flames crackled around them. They directed their own gunfire against the advancing enemy machines.

Concentrate on 2 Main Points.

The battle northwest of Stalingrad was concentrated on two main points: in the district of Kletskaya where the Russians were counterattacking strongly, and southeast of Kletskaya, where the Germans were pressing efforts to cross the great bend of the Don.

A front line dispatch to Izvestia, the government newspaper, said Red artillery and flyers had demolished three pontoon bridges and that many men and much material, including large tanks, had been sent to the bottom of the river.

Red Star said the German air force was operating extensively in an effort to form a protective cover for the crossings and the German Marshal Fedor von Bock was throwing in reenforcements without regard to losses in an effort to find a soft spot.

Claim Strong Points Broken.

BERLIN, Aug. 23 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command said today that axis troops have broken thru strong Russian positions and road barriers in the Caucasus and repulsed strong counterattacks. German bombers, it was said, sank two freighters and a tug on the Volga river on Friday and set afire another tug and four tankers yesterday.

Heavy Russian attacks were reported from Kaluga, southwest of Moscow and Rzhev, northwest of Moscow. Hard fighting in which 161 Russian tanks were destroyed yesterday, was reported.

MICHIGAN AVENUE AT RANDOLPH

Sir Henry M. Wilson Given Charge.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The British government today met the continued advances of the Germans in the Caucasus and other threats in the middle east by setting up a new independent army to be known as the "Iran [Persia]—Iraq command." Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, commander in chief of the British troops in Egypt in 1939, has been appointed commander in chief.

The highest importance is attached to this move. Iran is already threatened with each day's further German penetration in the Caucasus. It will be Wilson's duty to prevent the German's from advancing from the Caucasus to the rich Iran and Iraq oil fields.

Has Double Purpose.

Thus the new command has the double purpose of protecting the Egyptian army from attack from the rear and at the same time preventing the enemy from seizing the rich oil fields which are more vital for united nations operations in the Pacific, India, the middle east and north Africa, than their possession would be for the enemy.

The three British commands in the middle east and east now are:

1. Facing the Japanese on the eastern border of India.
2. Facing the Germans and Italians in Egypt.
3. Facing northward in Iraq and Iran toward the Caucasus.

Commander Called "Jumbo."

Chief Air Marshal Sir Arthur William Tedder, with headquarters in Egypt, will retain command of the RAF in all three areas.

Gen. Wilson, 60 years old and known as "Jumbo" because of his size, was responsible for the defense of the western frontier during the difficult months after the collapse of France and Italy's entry into the war.

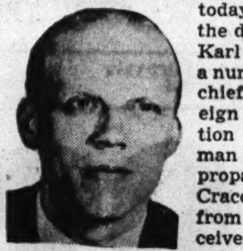
WALLGREN REPORTS ALASKA MILITARY SITUATION IMPROVED

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 23 (AP).—Sen. Mon C. Wallgren [D., Wash.] said tonight upon his return from a tour of Alaska with a special senate military affairs subcommittee that he was "much encouraged by the improved military situation" in the Aleutians.

Wallgren, with Sen. Harold H. Burton [R., Ohio], flew here by plane from Juneau, Alaska. Two other members of the committee, Sen. A. B. Chandler [D., Ky.] and Sen. Rufus C. Holman [R., Ore.], are returning by boat.

Wallgren and Burton will go to San Francisco to confer with Lieut. Gen. John L. De Witt, commanding the western defense command, and then return to Washington, D. C.

GOEBBELS' EX-AID DIES OF WOUNDS ON SOVIET FRONT



Prof. Karl Boemer.

ROME, Aug. 23 [from Italian broadcasts] (AP).—A dispatch from Berlin today reported the death of Prof. Karl Boemer, for a number of years chief of the foreign press section of the German ministry of propaganda, in a Cracow hospital from wounds received in fighting around Kharkov.

Boemer, long a trusted assistant of Propaganda Minister Goebbels, was found guilty by the dreaded People's court in Berlin on a charge of having been "indiscreet" in discussing Hitler's war plans with foreigners. Specifically, the charge was that he had tipped off the German intention to attack Russia in June, 1941.

40,000 SEE HOW MELTING POT OF AMERICA WORKS

20 Foreign Groups Stage Citizenship Pageant.

Chicagoans of nearly every race and creed gathered in Soldiers' field yesterday for the celebration of Illinois National day.

America's struggles and the varied origin of the men who founded the United States were the themes emphasized in a speech by Gov. Dwight H. Green and colorfully dramatized by a cast of 5,000 in a pageant, "The Making of an American."

Many of the 40,000 spectators had relatives and friends in the cast. Walking thru the aisles in the vast bowl, one could hear conversations in nearly a score of languages. The crowd was there to cheer its favorites and to watch a show.

Demands Complete Victory.

Gov. Green told the crowd that Americans must fight to preserve their liberty in a world at war, that Americans will accept nothing less than complete victory.

He spoke of the foreign ancestry of nearly every one in the United States and explained that the foreign language division of the Illinois State Council of Defense was formed to aid the "new Americans"—those who have recently come to this country.

"Education, the cornerstone of freedom, will be encouraged by the division," he said, "and new Americans will be taught the affairs of government. Every step will be taken to eliminate any causes which might create discrimination.

Sounds Keynote of Unity.

"Above all, unity will be made the watchword, because it is only by unity that this nation will be preserved for all time."

The governor paused until the spectators quit cheering, then concluded: "That program, my fellow Americans, I regard as the highest expression of the American way of life."

Onto the field came groups of 20 nationalities, all dressed in native costumes of approximately the period in history they were to represent.

There were the dark skinned Syrians whose homeland was the cradle of civilization; the Hungarians, whose kinsmen, Maj. Gen. Alexander Asboth and Maj. Gen. Stahel-Szamwald, were among Lincoln's heroes; the Chinese, the Greeks, the Norwegians, Italians, French, Belgians, Poles, Germans, Danes, Russians, Swedes, Jugo-Slavs, Lithuanians, Slovaks, Filipinos, Ukrainians, Czechs, and Mexicans.

Each group symbolized a great contribution to the mighty strength of America. They gathered around the dais on which stood two girls representing the Statue of Liberty and Miss Illinois.

Enthusiastic applause—well earned—greeted the members of the cast. Then thru the south gate marched the Illinois Reserve Militia.

The applause that had gone before was just a drop in the bucket—here were soldiers to cheer! The roar increased as Red Cross workers marched in and attained peak volume as four United States marine sergeants brought in the American colors.

Repeat Allegiance Pledge.

As the flag was carried to its position before the speakers' stand the announcer said, "And now the pledge of allegiance. Please repeat each phrase after me."

"I pledge allegiance to the flag. . . .". The announcer paused, but 40,000 voices kept on in unison: ". . . of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands, one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

In the stands a little man whose voice, heavy with accent, had boomed thruout the pledge, nudged his neighbor and chuckled:

"We don't need that announcer fella to tell us our pledge, hey?"

REPORTS SISTER MISSING.

Harry Schallon, 5027 North Springfield avenue, yesterday asked police to search for his sister, Miss Pauline Schallon, 32 years old, 1630 South Homan avenue, a saleswoman, who has been missing since July 25.

U. S. GOODS WELL USED IN RUSSIA, SAYS MAXWELL

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 23 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Russel L. Maxwell, commander of the United States army forces in the middle east, just returned from the Churchill-Stalin conference in Moscow, said today Russians are making excellent use of American war materials.

Gen. Maxwell conferred with Great Britain's new commander in the middle east, Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, and discussed American and British coöperation in Africa. They agreed that collaboration now is effective and that the program followed for six months should be continued.

In Moscow, which he visited with W. Averell Harriman, President Roosevelt's representative, Gen. Maxwell said he received "a most favorable impression of the Russians' enthusiastic management."

SITDOWN BOSS ASKS F. D. R. TO CURB LABOR

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 23 (AP).—Walter F. Fry, Detroit manufacturer who was dubbed the "sitdown boss" four years ago when he sat down against employés in a labor dispute, today sent an 800 word telegram to President Roosevelt protesting against labor conditions in his plant.

"I am taking the liberty of sending you this telegram," Fry told the President, "as you are the one and only man in America who, by the coddling and protection of labor, is not only responsible for this frightful and unbearable condition, but the only man in this country who has the power to stop every strike or slow-down in this nation within minutes."

Fry accused union workers in his plant of slowing production and threatening other workers who wished to hurry the work. He called upon the President to crack down on labor leaders by sending them to the front.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIES TO GUARD BRAZILIAN BULGE AGAINST ATTACK

Brig. Gen. Amaro Soares Bittencourt.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP).—Brazil's declaration of war on Germany and Italy cleared the way today for vigorous measures to secure the defense of the most vulnerable land area on the Atlantic side of the western hemisphere — the South American hump only 1,600 miles from Africa.

Ever since the war started, United States military men have pointed to this strategic sector as the one which the axis forces would attack first if ever they were able to consolidate their European and African positions.

Establishment of adequate protection, therefore, was clearly Brazil's first strategic task, and indications were that a speedy concentration of military strength in that area was contemplated.

"Defends the Continent."

A statement to that effect came from Brig. Gen. Amaro Soares Bittencourt, Brazilian military attaché here and the senior delegate to the inter-American defense board. The board will hold its first formal meeting Tuesday with the strategical problems growing out of Brazil's belligerency to the fore.

Gen. Bittencourt said that in defending herself Brazil "is defending the continent," and that to accomplish this "we must congregate and reunite all our military elements for the defense of the northeast, the strategical point on the bulge of Brazil for invasion by the axis."

There was no doubt in official quarters that the United States stood ready to aid its ally to any extent required. Already, in fact, this country has given much help to Brazil under lend-lease arrangements, furnishing airplanes, arms, and equipment. The fact that American airmen were credited with successful attacks on German submarines operating off the coast of Brazil indicates that some United States forces already are based in that country.

Army and Navy Small.

Whatever offensive rôle Brazil may play in the war, it is believed here, depends primarily on two factors—the size of the force she can raise and the urgency of requirements for her troops in other theaters of the World war.

Brazil's army is estimated at more than 100,000 men with 300,000 active reservists. Last April President Getulio Vargas signed a decree which could have the effect of increasing this force to 1,200,000 men.

The navy consists of two recently modernized battleships, 33 and 34 years old, supported by a force of two cruisers, a dozen destroyers, four submarines, half a dozen torpedo boats, and a score or more gunboats, mine sweepers, and other auxiliaries.

SOLDIER AT PILOT SCHOOL SEIZED AS GIRL SLAYER

Aberdeen, S. D., Aug. 23 (AP).—Several hours after the nude body of 19 year old Dorothy Blair was found today at Foote creek, two miles southwest of here near a night club, a soldier was arrested and confessed killing her, Police Commissioner R. S. Wallace announced.

Wallace said the man was Pvt. Robert B. Vanderwalker, 21, of Neenah, Wis., a student glider pilot at a training school here.

The body of the girl, missing since Monday, was weighted down by a rock filled bucket, attached by barbed wire. A soldier's cap, nearby, gave police their first clue. Then finding a bloodstained blouse with a pin bearing the name "Dorothy." Police learned the girl had been out with two other girls Monday and thru them the trail led to the soldier.

Wallace said the soldier, when asked the motive for his act, replied: "I don't know why I did it."

ARGENTINA WILL FIX ITS ATTITUDE ON BRAZIL TODAY

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 23 (AP).—Argentina's position in the international situation created by Brazil's declaration of war against Germany and Italy will be "fixed officially" tomorrow, the foreign office announced tonight. Signs of complete solidarity with Brazil arose among that belligerent's South American neighbors.

The foreign office issued its communique after Foreign Minister Ruiz Guinazu held a long conference on Brazil with President Ramon S. Castillo at the latter's residence, and later studied the case at the chancellory.

There were no official indications of the Argentine government's attitude but it was considered certain that it would consider Brazil a nonbelligerent, allowing her the use of Argentine ports as in peace times.

The Chilean government maintained silence, altho it previously had expressed solidarity by protesting to Berlin against the sinkings of Brazilian ships. It was believed Chile would also announce her position tomorrow.

This was interpreted as further indication that Uruguay might follow Brazil into war.

President Alfredo Baldomir of Uruguay told President Getulio Vargas of Brazil that "the situation created by the unjustified attacks is understood with emotion by our people" and that they were "deeply impressed by the sad circumstances which led to your action."

Solidly behind Brazil, the Uruguayan government tonight reached an agreement on terms of a decree which an announcement from Montevideo said would fix Uruguay's position. The agreement was announced by Foreign Minister Alberto Guani after a day of conferences with President Baldomir and the Brazilian and United States ambassadors.

Most observers said the decree would carry out the sentiments expressed by President Baldomir in the message to President Vargas.

Baldimir further said Uruguay would put into effect the Havana agreement which he declared "makes the continent a single nation against aggressions of a non-American state."

Reports from northern Uruguay said two submarines had been sighted 150 miles north of Chuy. There were reports that some submarines, presumably German, also were prowling off the mouth of the Plate river.

BRAZIL ROUNDS UP SPIES; PUTS GUARD ON COAST

Government Active on First Day at War.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 23 (AP).—Searchlights swept the skies over Rio de Janeiro's harbor as protection against surprise attack tonight and police car sirens shrieked as authorities carried out an intensive roundup of spy suspects on Brazil's first day of war.

Great activity marked the preparation of the government for what the people believed would be a long and hard fight with Germany and Italy.

In Rio de Janeiro and other cities civil, military and special police carried out a roundup of persons known to have had dubious association with axis agents. Authorities started a search for secret radio transmitters, and announced they had found one in the building of the German embassy, and others elsewhere.

Coast Patrol Intensified.

The Brazilian fleet and air force intensified their patrol of the coast in the region of the vital "Natal bulge," eastern promontory which is only 1,600 miles from Dakar, Africa.

Military authorities turned closest attention to French Guiana to the north, a region assuming increasing military importance as the French government at Vichy moves toward full collaboration with Germany. French Guiana, it was pointed out, lies directly across the coastal line of communication between Brazil and the United States.

A disposition for the closest possible coöperation with the United States was manifest. The prospect that other South American states might be drawn into the war against the axis was being studied. The decision of Brazil is sure to influence the attitudes of Uruguay, Colombia and Venezuela, which are believed to be on the verge of war, and on Argentina and Chile, which are still maintaining diplomatic relations with the axis.

Anger at Fifth Column.

The population was calm today after noisy demonstrations last night, and streets of Rio de Janeiro and other cities were still littered with signs and placards bearing the legend, "Death to Germany."

Feeling against fifth column activity was high, because citizens were convinced it was agents in their midst who communicated with axis submarines which sank five Brazilian vessels last week.

In several communities, especially along the coast, citizens of German and Italian blood were reported to be registering voluntarily at police headquarters to protest innocence, to give information on espionage activities which they disapproved, and to ask for protection.

The Spanish ambassador, Raimundo Fernandes Cuesta, made a public denial of published reports that Spanish ships along the coast had betrayed the location of Brazilian vessels.

Bringing home to Brazilians the fact that their country is at war was the beginning of practice black-outs in communities along the country's 5,000 mile coast.

To guard the coast Brazil was ready with a rapidly growing air force in which there are many modern North American planes, and with a navy designed for patrol duty. The immediate assignment to both navy and air force was to keep Brazil's end of communications with the United States and Europe open.

Many army reservists were being called to service, and security measures were being increased at strategic points.

The first meeting of the war cabinet had not yet been called. President Getulio Vargas, in the decree declaring a state of belligerency, stated there would be weekly cabinet meetings thruout the war.

Rio de Janeiro newspapers generally took the attitude that a declaration of war was the only honorable course open to the country.

The Correio da Manha said, "There is really not the slightest difference between an army which invades the frontiers of a sovereign state and a navy which uses its arms for aggression along the shore of that state."

2 U. S. OFFICERS WHO LED RAID ON ROUEN WIN SILVER STARS

Col. Frank A. Armstrong.

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander in chief of the United States army air forces in the European theater, today awarded the silver star to Brig. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commanding general of the United States 8th army bombing command, and Col. Frank A. Armstrong, commanding the first All-American squadron to bomb enemy occupied territory in Europe. Eaker and Armstrong led the flying fortress bombing of Rouen, France, Aug. 17.

'BLOOD, SWEAT, TEARS,' GERMANS PROMISE BRAZIL

BERLIN, Aug. 23 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Brazil can look forward to only "blood, sweat, and tears," the diplomatic correspondent of DNB, official German news service, wrote tonight. The Germans were quoting Prime Minister Churchill when he warned he would require the most extreme sacrifices from the British people.

The German agency said Brazil's entry into the war was accomplished by "wire pullers" in Washington. "Consequently one should not attach importance to the pretext made in Rio de Janeiro," DNB continued.

Italy regards Brazil's declaration of war against the axis "with equanimity," it was stated by a dispatch from Milan quoting the newspaper Stampa, which said it was "painful and regrettable to see a country which for generations has benefited from Italian emigrants and which was civilized by them had joined the enemy coalition."

WHEN A BOMBER PILOT GETS MAD, LOOK OUT, TOJO!

Angry Major Dives 4,000 Feet at Zero.

Maj. James V. Edmundson.

The bomber, piloted by Maj. James V. Edmundson of Santa Monica, Cal., was one of several working from jungle hidden airfields in forays on Japanese installations in the Solomons offensive which started Aug. 7.

But Edmundson, 27, has a flair for getting things done in the air. Months ago, in his first real action with a bomber, he sank a Japanese submarine off Hawaii. His latest exploit was prompted by irritation over the maneuvering of the Japanese Zero plane pilot.

Meets Seven Japs.

This is how he told it to Capt. Charles E. Shelton, staff officer sent to the Solomons by Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale, commander of the Hawaiian air force:

"We were just coming in from our bombing run when seven float-type Zeros showed up about 1,000 feet above us and off our right wing. There were three bombers in my element.

"Those Zeros stayed up there, riding alongside us for about five minutes. After they'd figured out a plan of attack they started peeling off to make a headon attack.

"The first one aimed at my plane. My gunners worked him over and they think maybe they got him. The Jap was smoking heavily when he went down below. At least he never came back.

Major Gets Mad.

"Then the second Zero attacked my wingman. That Zero caught on fire and crashed. Credit that one to Lieut. MacDonald.

"The third Zero veered off and attacked from behind. The gunners said he hit the water and exploded.

"The fourth Zero hit us from behind and below. They're good climbers, and this bird must have thought he would show off, because he pulled up in front of us, and that was when I got mad.

"I put the bomber in a wingover and started diving after the Jap. My left wingman didn't know what was up, but he pulled his plane over and started to follow.

"Well, we followed that Jap Zero down for about 4,000 feet. The Zero was running, all right. I imagined he wondered 'what the hell' when he saw a bomber dogfighting him.

"Anyway, when we got close to him my plane nosed up slightly, giving the gunner a chance. The gunner did a good job getting the Zero."

Maj. Jim, as his fellow pilots call him, indicated his wing planes and his own gunners deserved all the credit.

Another Bomber's Story.

The crew of the dogfighting bomber included in addition to Maj. Edmundson: Lieut. Edwin Lanigan, Belmont, Mass.; Sergt. Samuel Moses, Donora, Pa.; Sergt. Lester Williams, Cobalt, Conn.; Corp. Angelo P. Delucia, Reading, Pa., and Pvt. Howard Canton, Brooklyn, N. Y.

One bomber was piloted by Capt. Kermit Messerschmitt of Fort Collins, Colo., who got a couple of Japanese Zero fighters, and a bullet, too. The bullet won him a Purple Heart decoration.

"I was leading a flight of three planes," said Messerschmitt. "Just before we got to our objective my No. 3 engine cut out on me. Rather than handicap the other two planes I sent them on up a few thousand feet above me.

"Then I banked. Just as we came around two Zeros attacked us headon. On their first pass some machine gun bullets hit my instrument panel."

Three of Crew Shot.

Messerschmitt described how one bullet hit his co-pilot, Lieut. Philip Sprawls, a South Carolinian, in the leg. Another bullet hit a shoe on Staff Sergt. Eugene Davis of Williamstown, Mass., the crew chief, nicking his foot. A piece of copper jacket from a bullet hit Messerschmitt over the left eye.

"It seems that after the first frontal attack two enemy planes split and started making individual passes at us. They'd get off to one side and then cut in toward our plane. My gunner, Technical Sergt. Paul Tuley of Evansville, Ind., and Sergt. Davis, who was handling the top gun, got one of them.

"The second Jap came in from our right rear. He made the mistake of turning and Corp. Warren Morse of Middleton, Mass., and Gunner Sergt. Culver reported a positive hit on him."

NAVY RECRUITS 500 AVIATION CADETS IN ITS DRIVE FOR 2,000

Chicagoland's Fly for Navy Drive to recruit 2,000 naval aviation cadets by Sept. 30 enters its fourth week today with approximately 500 men enlisted, Lieut. Comm. Carl G. Olson, senior member of the naval cadet selection board, said yesterday.

Indicative of the board's intention to double its efforts to obtain flying seamen during the closing phases of the campaign, the opening of the fourth week will be featured tonight by the largest rally conducted thus far. The rally will be in Scott hall on the Northwestern university campus, Evanston,

Maj. Floyd M. Showalter, president of the army aviation cadet examining board, spoke at a dedication ceremony yesterday marking entrance of the Veterans of Foreign Wars into the campaign to recruit 20,000 army flyers by the end of the year. The ceremony took place in quarters of the Greater Pullman post, No. 2240, VFW, 114th street and Front avenue.

HALT 2 SUSPECTS ON HUNCH; GET 41 GUNS, 17 PISTOLS

Two men who admitted that avarice and not sportsmanship had prompted them to burglarize a South Bend, Ind., sporting goods store, were arrested yesterday by Shakespeare avenue police who found 41 shotguns and 17 revolvers in the back seat of their car.

They gave their names as John Holt, 31, of Cincinnati, and Clayton Farley, 27, of Newport, Ky., and said they were parolees from the Kentucky state prison. They admitted breaking into the Berman sporting goods store in South Bend, and told Policemen Harry G. Martin and Arthur Essert, who stopped their car on suspicion, that they brought the guns to Chicago in the hope of pawning them.

Police are holding the two men for investigation. Essert said they would be taken before the detective bureau showup tomorrow night. South Bend police said that the owner of the sporting goods store, Sam Berman, would identify the guns here.

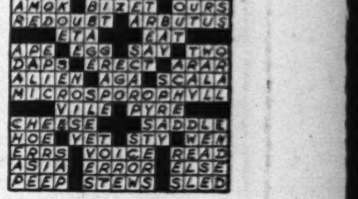
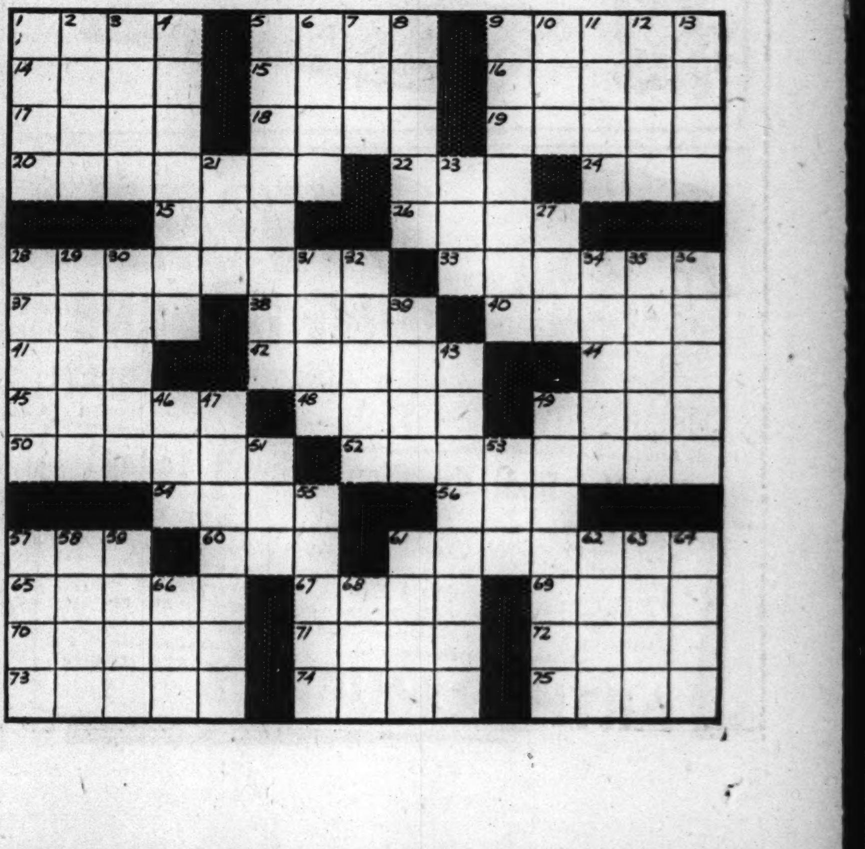
PUZZLE OF SATURDAY, AUGUST 22, SOLVED.





5,000 ISLANDS IN SOLOMON GROUP AND NOT A ROAD

Named After Wise King of Israel.

Timely as a war feature is the full page color map of the Solomon Islands which appears on the back page of today's paper. It is in this remote archipelago in the western Pacific ocean that American forces have met with success in the first major offensive against the Japanese.

The Japanese occupied several main islands of the Solomon group last spring in their drive to cut ocean routes to Australia, but efforts were not made to dislodge them until Aug. 7. Already American land forces have recaptured several of the islands in the southeastern part of the group, and now are reported to be "mopping up" remnants of enemy troops still left there.

The Solomon Islands are a part of Melanesia. They lie east of New Guinea and slightly east of a north and south line that touches the east coast of Austrlia. They number more than 5,000, altho most of them are mere rocky islets.

The total land area of the Solomons is about 15,000 square miles. The largest of the islands is Bougainville, with 3,900 square miles. Other sizable islands of the group are Buka, Choiseul, Veka Vekalla, Kulambangra, Ganonga, New Georgia, Rendova, Montgomery, Vangunu, Ysabel, Malaita, Florida, Guadalcanal [or Guadalcanar], and San Cristoval [San Christoval].

Natives Still Wild.

Approximately 140,000 people live on these islands, most of whom are primitive natives of Melanesian stock, ranging in color from black to light tan. There is, however, an admixture of Polynesian blood on the islands, and there are marked differences among the various tribes. Cannibalism and head hunting were rife there before they were stamped out by white men. In the interior of some of the larger islands, particularly Bougainville, the natives still are extremely wild. Only a few hundred white people dwell in the Solomons.

The larger islands are mountainous, and covered in some places with heavy forests. The soil is fertile. Coconuts, rubber, bananas, pineapples, and sweet potatoes grow in abundance, and in normal times a considerable amount of timber is cut for exportation.

Little has been done to improve the islands. A tourist returning from there in recent years reported that there were no roads.

Discovered in 1567.

Alvaro Mendaña, a Spanish explorer who sailed from Peru in 1567, has been accepted as the discoverer of the Solomon Islands. He surveyed the southern portion of the archipelago, and gave to the whole group the name Islas de Salomon, in the belief that it might have been the source of King Solomon's riches, or at least in the hope that it would provide gold in quantities comparable with that of the biblical king. He named three of the larger islands San Cristoval. Ysabel, and Guadalcanal.

The Spaniards did not want the rest of the world to know about the Solomons and they themselves apparently forgot about them, for it was not until 1767 that they again turned up in maritime reports. Philip Carteret sighted them in that year and in the following year Louis de Bougainville found his way there, and discovered the three larger northern islands, Buka, Choiseul, and the one that bears his name.

In the early part of the 19th century missionaries and traders attempted to settle on these islands, but the ferocity of the natives discouraged most of their efforts. In 1845 the French Marist Fathers set up a mission on Ysabel.

Islands Are Divided.

Until the 90's the ownership of the islands had not been firmly established, altho various countries, including Germany, had attempted from time to time formally to take them over. In 1893 Great Britain officially annexed Malaita, Marova, Gaudalcanal, San Cristoval, and a number of smaller islands. By a covenant of Nov. 14, 1899, Great Britain and Germany divided the islands between them, the Germans accepting all the islands west and north of a line that ran thru Bougainville strait and thence turned east along the sixth parallel south.

In 1914, in the first World war, Australian forces occupied the German Solomons, and after the war these islands were mandated by the League of Nations to Australia.

The British Solomons constitute the main part of the Solomon Island protectorate, which includes the Santa Cruz Islands to the east. The British Solomons are administered in normal times by the colonial office, thru a high commissioner for the western Pacific, with headquarters at Suva, Fiji. A resident commissioner, under orders of the high commisisoner is located in peace times on Tulagi, a small island off the southwest coast of Florida Island.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC NAVAL STAFF CHIEF MADE REAR ADMIRAL

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 23 (AP).—The promotion of Capt. J. Cary Jones of Hollywood, Cal., to the rank of rear admiral was announced today. He will continue as chief of staff to the commander of allied naval units in the southwest Pacific area, a position he has held since April 23 this year.

2 RAF BOMBERS BLAST EMDEN IN DAYLIGHT BLOW

Dart Down from Clouds; Climb Back Again.

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP).—Two of the royal air force's Wellington bombers sprang a surprise attack on the German port and shipbuilding center of Emden by daylight today, scoring hits among buildings in the dock area.

The air ministry, announcing the raid, said the two bombers took Emden's defenders by surprise, breaking thru the clouds at 4,000 feet, dumping their explosives and disappearing in the clouds again.

Exchanges Fire with Fighter.

Returning home one Wellington exchanged fire with a Messerschmitt 109 fighter. The Wellington's rear gunner got in a long burst of fire in the last of the nine attacks by the fighter and saw fragments break off the enemy plane. Then the clouds closed in and nothing further was seen of the Messerschmitt.

German raiders dropped thousands of incendiary bombs near a West Midlands town early tonight. Raiders also were reported over East Anglia.

Bombs were dropped on a place on the south coast of England this afternoon and last night.

Nazi Plane Over Ireland.

RAF HEADQUARTERS, Northern Ireland, Aug. 23 (AP).—A German plane which approached the coast of Northern Ireland where American troops are in training was intercepted by RAF planes this morning, an RAF announcement said. The raider was reported damaged and forced to turn back toward the south.

Dublin Reports 2 Crashes.

DUBLIN, Ireland, Aug. 23 (AP).—A British plane crashed at Ratoath, County Meath, 12 miles northwest of Dublin, today and the badly injured pilot died in a short time. Half an hour later a German aircraft crashed near Tramore, County Waterford, on the south coast. Four members of the crew, including one wounded, have been interned.

Look for Raid Follow-Up.

New York, Aug. 23 (AP).—The German high command's communique today suggested that the Germans are fearful the united nations will follow up their Dieppe raid by another commando attack or full-fledged invasion almost immediately.

The communique said the German air force had carried out attacks on the British south coast and had sunk seven landing barges. The attack evidently was a copy of the tactics of the British air force in 1940 when heavy assaults were made on invasion barges which the Germans had collected along the Dutch and French coasts.

3 MEN KILLED IN COLLISION OF TRAIN AND AUTO

Brighton, Mich., Aug. 23 (AP).—Three persons were killed in a collision betwen a Pere Marquette passenger train and an automobile at the Silver lake road crossing near Brighton tonight.

State police said Leon Slade, the engineer, and Norman Coley, the fireman, both of Grand Rapids, and J. Bell, driver of the automobile, were killed.

The locomotive and four or five cars were derailed in the collision, state police said.

The train, westbound, was en route to Lansing.

PURGE FIZZLES AGAIN; O'DANIEL VICTOR IN TEXAS

Last Hope of Success in Primaries Blasted.

magazine New Republic last May. The other two, Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] and Arthur Capper [R., Kas.] were renominated by landslides.

Of 26 representatives on the UDA purge list, only two, Charles I. Faddis [D., Pa.] and Martin L. Sweeney [D., O.], have failed of renomination, while a third, Harry B. Coffee [D., Neb.], was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Thus far candidates have been nominated for 19 of the 34 senate seats and 282 of the 435 house seats to be filled in the November election. Primaries will be held next Tuesday in California, Mississippi, and South Carolina.

Condemned by Dies Committee.

The Union for Democratic Action has been condemned by a special report of the Dies committee on un-American activities as the spearhead of a totalitarian conspiracy to destroy representative government in the United States. Twenty-seven of its national leaders were prominently identified a few years ago with the American League Against War and Fascism, which the Dies committee denounced as a "bold advocate of treason" and which Attorney General Biddle has branded a Communist front organization.

While there has been no Dies committee report on Citizens for Victory, it is closely affiliated by common memberships and activities with the UDA and other outfits participating in the purge and smear campaign, such as the Council for Democracy, Friends of Democracy, the National Committee of Independent Voters, and Vote for Freedom, an aggregation of Willkieites and Communist fellow travelers with headquarters at Freedom house, in New York, successor to the prewar Fight for Freedom, Inc.

Clark M. Eichelberger, director of the old League of Nations association, is vice chairman and active manager of Citizens for Victory. Eichelberger and Earl Browder, head of the Communist party in the United States, addressed an anti-war meeting in New York in June, 1936. In 1939 Eichelberger was a speaker at the convention of the American Student union, headed by Joseph Lash, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's protége.

Communist on Payroll.

Citizens for Victory lists payments of $84.15 a month since the first of this year to Jay Lovestone, an employé of its labor division. Lovestone is a former general secretary of the Communist party and now heads the Lovestone faction of the Communists.

The organization lists accounts payable of $28,289.72 and receipts of only $8,335.66. Only contributions of $100 and up are listed. Marshall Field, of 250 Park avenue, New York, multi-millionaire publisher of the little smear sheet, PM, is listed as a contributor of $500.

The Union for Democratic Action reported receipts of $5,988.35 for April and $3,102.93 for May. It reported expenditures of $5,143.61 for April and $4,274.77 for May, with bills outstanding of $1,024.09.

Married

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Norma Shearer and Martin Arrouge after their marriage in Beverly Hills, Cal., yesterday.

Beverly Hills, Cal., Aug. 23 (AP).—A romance begun four years ago when they met at a Sun Valley, Idaho vacation resort where he was a professional ski instructor culminated today in a quiet church wedding for Norma Shearer, former screen actress, and Martin Arrouge. The 36 year old widow of Irving Thalberg, movie producer who died six years ago, and the sportsman were joined in wedlock by the Rev. John J. O'Donnell in the Church of the Good Shepherd. Miss Shearer's two children by her first marriage, Irving Thalberg Jr., 11, and Katherine Thalberg, 8, and a few close film colony friends of the couple attended the wedding. In a prenuptial agreement, Arrouge waived all rights to Miss Shearer's community property from her late husband's estate. Miss Shearer estimated the estate at $1,500,000.

RED PARTY BLOTS TAINT MINNESOTA FARM LABORITES

Stassen Tactics Result in Hot G. O. P. Battle.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 23.—With three parties in the field, Minnesota's Sept. 8 primary appears to have plenty of complexities. The Farmer-Labor party is seeking a comeback but is split as in 1938 when an all-party uprising against its Communist taint drove it out of power.

Rep. A. H. Andresen. [top] and Rep. Harold Knutson.

The Republicans have spirited fights over nominations for senator, governor, and lieutenant governor. The governor race is a hot spot this time in view of Gov. Harold Stassen's announcement that if he is elected he will resign and enter the navy after the legislature winds up next spring, which would make the lieutenant governor his successor. Beneath the campaign is a sub rosa struggle for control of the G. O. P. organization in 1944.

The Democrats have candidates without contests. Many of them are expected to bounce into the Republican and Farmer-Labor primaries. This adds to the muddle of the soothsayers.

Two Are Targets of Smear.

Two of Minnesota's eight Republican congressmen—Harold Knutson of the St. Cloud district and August H. Andresen of Red Wing—have been marked as special targets by an eastern smear group intent on a purge of pre-Pearl Harbor noninterventionists. Knutson, first elected in 1917, has served 13 consecutive terms. The politicians figure him as a probable winner over Fred J. Hughes of St. Cloud, his opponent.

Rep. Andresen, who has served eight terms, is expected to win easily over his Republican opponent, Florian J. Hering of Winona. Andresen was urged to run for United States senator this time, but his constituents persuaded him he would be of greater service in his present position. He is on the house agriculture committee.

Much furor has been roused in the last few days by Gov. Stassen's designation of Ed Thye of Northfield as his choice for lieutenant governor. Lieut. Gov. C. Elmer Anderson, who was elected in 1938 at the age of 26 in the landslide that elected Stassen governor, is shouting that the governor is building up a "crown prince" and striving to handpick the heir to the governorship if he resigns.

Dictator Plan Charged.

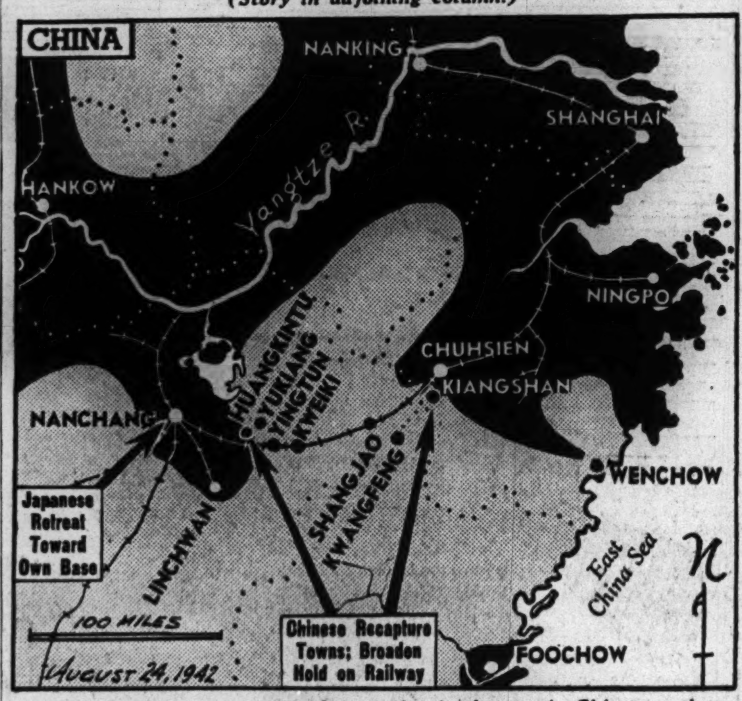
Martin H. Nelson, Stassen's chief opponent for the governorship, is charging that the governor is assuming dictatorial powers in seeking an heir apparent. John G. Alexander, a third candidate for governor in the Republican primary, has expressed the view that the nation has evidence of what the people think about attempts by higherups to dominate party affairs by the results in New York, when President Roosevelt's candidate was rejected in favor of one backed by James A. Farley.

In the Republican senatorship contest, Walter K. Mickelson, a New Ulm editor who was given support by Sen. Henrik Shipstead a few nights ago, is telling the voters that Sen. Joseph H. Ball does not represent the people of the state. Sen. Ball, who was appointed by Gov. Stassen to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sen. Ernest Lundeen, supported Roosevelt's foreign policies before Pearl Harbor.

"Mr. Ball has not represented the people of Minnesota," Mickelson said in his keynote speech last week. "Just whom does he represent? He represents the few but powerful big business and international banking [illegible] Lamont, chairman of the board of the house of Morgan, and Wendell L. Willkie, and here in Minnesota by John Cowles."

War Developments in China

(Story in adjoining column.)



The developments reported yesterday in the war in China are shown on the map.

CHINESE RETAKE 2 MORE TOWNS IN PUSH ON RAILWAY

Widen Gap Between Jap Forces to 110 Miles.

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 23 (AP).—Pressing hard on the heels of retreating Japanese, the Chinese recaptured Kiangshan and Huangkintu today, thus broadening their hold on the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway to more than 110 miles, the Chinese Central News agency reported.

Driving eastward, the Chinese crossed the border into Chekiang province in three columns and engaged the enemy southwest of Kiangshan. After a battle the Japanese withdrew, burning the city as they went.

Within 20 Miles of Chuhsien.

The Chinese thus were within 20 miles of Chuhsien, a potential United States air base which was one of the chief objectives of the Japanese when they began their midsummer campaign in the coastal provinces of central China.

At the same time a westward advancing Chinese force, after recapturing Yingtun yesterday, pushed northwestward and took Huangkintu this morning. Huangkintu is six miles from Yukiang, which also was reoccupied yesterday. The latter place is about 20 miles northwest of Yingtun.

Approach Poyang Lake.

The vanguard of the retreating enemy thus was approaching the southern shores of Poyang lake and Nanchang, the Japanese base. They were drawing near Yukan and Juihung in that sector.

The dual drives, whose objectives included the recapture of aerial bases within bombing distance of Japan, had given the Chinese control of the middle section of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway.

SUICIDE'S BODY RECOVERED.

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 23 [Special].—The body of Charles Baurose, 86 years old, who committed suicide Friday morning in a leap into the Mississippi river from the Centennial bridge, was recovered this afternoon at Linwood. Baurose left his hat, cane, and coat on the bridge when he leaped.

BROOKS ATTACK IS RENEWED BY ILLINOIS REDS

EchoMcKeoughAttack on G. O. P. Platform.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Illinois Reds indicated yesterday for the second time in recent weeks that they oppose the reëlection of Sen. Wayland Brooks and will aid his Democratic opponent, Congressman R. S. [Small Potatoes] McKeough.

A statement issued in the name of the Illinois state committee of the Communist party echoed the attack made by McKeough on the G. O. P. platform adopted in Springfield last Thursday and followed the lead of the Democratic press in criticising the party's failure to follow the lead of Wendell Willkie.

The Red organization is circulating petitions for the declared purpose of putting its candidate for United States senator and state offices on the November ballot, but the indications are that they have little thought of success and that their ultimate move will be to throw the little strength they have to McKeough.

Call for Coalition.

This prospect was made clear in a folder issued by the organization a few weeks ago in which hatred for Brooks and his political associates was revealed most clearly.

A part of that pamphlet read:

"Only a coalition of all the win the war forces can defeat Sen. Brooks, Congressman Day and the rest of The Tribune-Green delegation and elect men who will truly represent the interests of the nation.

"Labor-CIO, AFL, and the railroad brotherhoods—Democrats, win-the-war Republicans, Communists, the Negro people, the farming population—all must organize and unite to turn the election campaign into a crusade for victory behind the commander in chief, President Roosevelt.

One Aim: Defeat Brooks.

"The November elections must serve to smash the appeasers, rout them out of the halls of congress, out of positions of power, and expose their ties with the hated enemies of our country."

A later paragraph read:

"The candidates of the Communist party will conduct a campaign with one central aim: to defeat Brooks, Day, and their gang at all costs and support such candidates as will follow a win the war policy."

The Communist organization is not legally recognized as a political party in Illinois. In recent elections it has failed to meet the requirements demanded of a proposed new party seeking a column on the election ballot. Among its candidates are several with records as radicals.

Sen. Brooks left Chicago yesterday for Washington to be on hand if the senate votes on two important matters in which he is greatly interested. One is the bill providing for absentee voting by men and women in the armed services. The other, which also would pave the way for voting by such absentees as failed to pay their poll taxes, would prohibit that form of tax, now required in some states as a prerequisite to voting.

VETERINARY MEDICINE LEADERS WILL REVEAL NEW FINDINGS TODAY

How removal of a steer's thyroid gland—corresponding somewhat to a goiter operation in humans—will accelerate its rate of growth by approximately one third, will be one of the many disclosures of recent research developments to be aired at the four-day American Veterinary Medical association convention which opens this morning in the Palmer House.

Initial steps will be taken at the convention to amend present stock transportation laws which fail to provide adequate inspection for truck-transported animals. Current legislation was enacted when railroads carried all live stock, it was pointed out, but 70 per cent of all animal shipping is now done by trucks.

More than 1,500 will attend the AVMA and 12 affiliated conventions which will be held simultaneously, officials of the veterinary's group said.

THE NEW YORK CABAL.

Martin Nelson, candidate for the Republican nomination for the governorship of Minnesota, spoke the other day of "attempts by big financial interests in the east . . . to dictate to Minnesota." Mr. Nelson was calling attention to a phenomenon of the times—the effort of a cabal in New York to run the politics of the entire nation. The attempted purge of the men in congress who opposed intervention before Pearl Harbor discloses the method and some of the participants.

Mr. Nelson did not tell the whole story when he directed attention to "big financial interests." They are parties to the scheme as Mr. Willkie, among others, evidences, but they are not the only ones. The Communists and their fellow travelers are in the campaign; their spokesmen and their mosquito press reveal the fact every day and every week. Magazines edited in New York, of more general circulation, some of them large and some of them small, are likewise playing their part.

More significant is the development of a carpetbag press. There are three eastern-owned newspapers in Chicago and several in Iowa and Minnesota. A lot of money is being sunk by New Yorkers in newspapers in the middle west, which were acquired with a view to imposing handpicked candidates on the natives.

The cabal has been notably unsuccessful thus far. The recent Democratic convention in New York revealed that the plotters can't control even a New York state convention. In this part of the country the people have shown small interest in the carpetbag candidates and even less in the carpetbag newspapers. The natives are not taking orders.

In that sense the whole effort can be written down as unimportant and insignificant except as the losses incurred by absentee newspaper owners reduce by millions of dollars a year the income tax payments to the United States treasury. It may be worth noting, however, that the movement comes just at the time when students of politics have before them ample evidence of the danger of permitting such groups of self-anointed prophets to dominate the politics of a nation.

The rule in this country has been that the Republicans and the Democrats in each constituency nominated candidates and formulated platforms. In consequence we have had a rather wide diversity of views within each party. Our system was in many respects the opposite of that prevailing in Britain and on the continent. There the candidates were generally chosen by central, oligarchic party organizations and handed to the constituencies. It is to the clique in control of his party rather than to the voters in his district that the representative under this system feels he owes his first allegiance.

The success in recent months of numerous independent candidates for parliament is one among many indications of a growing dissatisfaction with absentee political control in England. On the continent, the dominance of the party oligarchies went far to discredit the idea of representative government itself, with results which are as familiar as they are tragic. Absentee management of the representative system persuaded millions of voters that they were powerless to influence the action of their representatives and accordingly the people felt they had lost little or nothing when their parliaments were dissolved.

Europeans were always mystified at the diversity of views displayed in our party conventions and by the lack of party discipline in congress. They did not realize that in congress and the conventions a diversity of local views and interests was being adjusted by compromise. The process is necessarily somewhat confusing and disorderly but it has the great merit of assuring that local interests, opinions, and prejudices will be voiced, and if the demand is sufficiently strong will be given recognition.

The efforts of the New York clique are being directed toward the destruction of this lively and durable system and the substitution for it of a political absenteeism which has caused grave dissatisfaction in Britain and has promoted the rise of dictatorships on the continent. The American political instinct which has rejected absentee guidance is sound.

BRAZIL: ALLY ONCE MORE.

The united nations are now 29. Brazil has declared war on Germany and Italy, the first nation in South America to do so. Our new ally is an old ally, for she also was with us in the first World war, which she entered in October, 1917. Now, as then, Germany's unrestricted submarine campaign provided the provocation. Next to the United States, Brazil was the greatest sufferer from U-boats in the western hemisphere in the first war, and the sinking of six Brazilian ships in the last week, three of them troop transports, was more than she was willing to let pass unchallenged.

Brazil brings to the cause of the united nations a population of 40 million persons, an army of 100,000 in active service and 300,000 trained reserves, a growing air force probably now in excess of 5,000 trained personnel, huge if largely undeveloped economic resources, and a serviceable navy that includes some old craft but is being built up in the lighter and more useful categories. Her merchant marine, next to our own, is the largest in the hemisphere.

Brazil's geographic position makes her strategically important, but adds to the defensive problems of this country, at least until we can give her sufficient planes and equipment so that she can organize her defenses adequately. The Natal bulge lies only 1,600 miles across the South Atlantic from Dakar in Africa. Strong plane concentrations there can put a further limitation on German submarine activity, but, on the other hand, many persons in times past have thought that if a Nazi threat ever materialized against the western hemisphere, the attack would come at the bulge of Brazil. There are 4½ million axis nationals in Brazil who must be watched. An exposed coast line of 4,900 miles is something else to consider.

Brazil, however, may bring in other South American countries which so far have hung back. Uruguay is a likely recruit, and if that country enters the war, Argentina, lying just across the estuary of the Plate, will think twice about carrying its friendship with the axis too far. Buenos Aires would be wide open to planes based in Uruguay.

Brazil in the last war sent its fleet into African waters and dispatched aviators and a medical mission to France, besides giving great economic aid. Its assistance will be far more formidable this time.

THE CORRECT STRATEGY FOR AMERICA.

The news from the Pacific would indicate that a movement is under way not only to repossess the islands taken by Japan in the early part of the war but to seize those Jap bases in Micronesia which are most useful and to neutralize the others. The attack on Makin Island in the Gilbert group, 1,100 miles northeast of the Solomon Islands, was described as a raid. Base installations, seaplanes, ships, and radio facilities were destroyed.

It is especially significant that an American amphibious force was able to penetrate deeply into an ocean zone that Japan up to now has considered safely her own. The approach was made with such secrecy and purpose that a marine landing party was put ashore and had killed at least 80 Japs before it was withdrawn with only moderate losses. If we can cross such a stretch of hostile waters and achieve a landing on a defended base with a relatively small force, we can certainly do it again in greater strength against more important objectives.

Makin is not one of the long established Jap bases. It was taken by the Japs from Great Britain in the early course of the Pacific war. Its garrison probably was not large, but when we sent a task force against it, we were demonstrating that we can venture into areas that Japan must have thought were closed to us. The advantages of surprise and initiative are ours. They can readily be exploited against an enemy that no longer can be certain which way to turn.

Japan is now placed in the unenviable position in which the united nations found themselves some months ago. The questions that confront her are: Where will the attack come next? Where to defend? Our exploratory attempt against Makin demonstrates, as was demonstrated on a greater scale in the Solomons, that she can no longer be sure. The Solomons were held in much greater strength than was Makin, but even with shore defenses and land based planes the Japs were caught off balance. The very extent of Japan's conquests, piled on to her mandated holdings of a thousand islands, increases her troubles and invites her into the same error of dispersing her forces which, on the part of the British, the Dutch, and ourselves, made her previous conquests possible.

When we went to Makin, we were approaching within 300 miles of Japan's established base of Jaluit in the mandated Marshall Islands. The key Micronesian base of Truk is about as far from Makin as Makin is from the Solomons. Our next venture might be against either Jaluit or Truk or any one of hundreds of other points. Japan does not know, as she did not know that we were coming against the Solomons or Makin. And she does not know in what force we will come next time.

With surprise and initiative ours, the rest depends upon the resolution and gallantry of American fighting men. We already know that there need be no concern about those qualities. They have been displayed on every occasion, and at no time more emphatically than as reported by Adm. Nimitz of the Japanese attempt to break our hold on the Solomons by landing 700 fresh troops against the occupying American marines. The marines turned in a perfect score: 670 of the invaders were killed and the remaining 30 captured. The cost to the marines was 28 killed and 72 injured.

We are committed to carry forward the Pacific offensive so successfully begun, and that is the correct strategy for America.

AIR POWER IN THE WEST.

Five hundred allied fighter planes returned over France in a daylight sweep the day after the commando raid on Dieppe and American Flying Fortresses blasted the railway at Amiens. It was by far the greatest daylight fighter sweep ever made over the occupied continent. The significant, almost incredible, fact is that not a single allied plane was lost. Only slight German fighter opposition was encountered.

The results of the sweep can be regarded as a conclusive demonstration that allied aircraft punished the Germans severely and cut down their fighter force on the invasion coast materially in the great air battle that accompanied the Dieppe raid. Ninety-one German planes are reported destroyed for certain in that fight, and the number shot down or damaged is placed at 275. It had been estimated that German fighter strength in the west was 500 planes.

As matters stand, the British and Americans now hold air control over the channel area and probably the territory extending a considerable distance back from it. Hitler can probably bring air control back to a rough balance only by diverting a considerable number of fighter planes from other theaters. One effect of that should be to help the Russians. It may also ease the allied shipping problem in the Mediterranean.

The Germans still have effective anti-aircraft defenses concentrated in occupied France, Holland, and Belgium, but if German fighter strength is not repaired it should be much easier for the allies to go systematically about the destruction of these defenses, as well as to carry out their attacks on other objectives. It is improbable that the allied strategy will be anything else than to maintain or even step up the crescendo of air operations. We have gained an advantage and we should not let go of it.

THE WORLD'S WORST ROADS.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

The war department has just awarded a contract for a series of roads at the Aberdeen proving ground, these roads to be the worst that human deviltry can devise. The army plans to test its mechanized equipment on them, and so they must be guaranteed to remain in terrible condition for years, and will be lavishly pocked with simulated shell holes, bomb craters, and land mine excavations. The worse they are, the better the roads will be, and if they are unspeakably bad from the civilian driver's point of view, they will be practically perfect in the army's estimation.

Almost any motorist will recognize the type of road the war department has in mind, and almost any motorist can direct the army to a stretch of road which he suspects is the prototype of all such proving ground atrocities. It is too bad that no way has yet been found to salvage these little canyons and plateaus in our streets and highways to help the army test its war machines.

FIRST AID TO WAR NEWS.

Dress rehearsal for the second front? Could be, but that commando raid on Dieppe carried enough journalists to cover a first-night.

* * *

About 100 years ago a duchess of Berry discovered that Dieppe was a nice place for a summer vacation. She established the old town as a watering place, or plage as we say in the French classes. It became quite popular among waders and plungers into the brine, altho its pebbly beach is hard on the feet; hence the row of waterfront hotels you saw in the newspaper illustrations. . . . If there were any Americans in the commandos which hit that part of Dieppe, they must have thought they were shooting up Atlantic City.

* * *

Since this column is always interested in ancient architectural monuments that may become sacrifices to the war god, we will call the roll of Dieppe's: The church of St. Jacques, founded in the 13th century, but largely of later workmanship, said to be very fine; the churches of Notre Dame de Bon Secours and St. Remy, dating from the 16th and 17th centuries, and the castle, built in 1435.

* * *

We said our say about the Solomon Islands and their rôle in South seas fiction about three months ago, anticipating the present interest in that uncivilized archipelago. See Jack London's stories, "The Terrible Solomons" and "The Inevitable White Man" in "South Sea Tales," Sonoma edition. . . . The names of the various islands in this large group are partly French and Spanish, from the influence of early European navigators, and partly native. . . . Bougainville is named after a famous French explorer; Choiseul after Louis XV.'s prime minister, who was much in favor with the king's mistress, Mme. Pompadour.

THE STAR-TREE.

There is a star-tree in my yard.
"No such thing," you say?
But you are wrong, for when the world
Has loosed the cloak of day
And donned night's velvet black, one tree
Stands straight, and bare, and tall
Against the sky; austere and gaunt
Against the winds of fall.

By day it looms a craggéd shape
And scrapes bare bough on bough,
And we are strangers thru the day,
When, lo—I know not how—
Night does soft things with winds and lights,
With colors and with lines.
It spreads a shade of magic dust
And where each new star shines,
It blows the spark across the sky
And sprinkles one bare tree
With lights of heaven, in my yard,
In special show for me.

O, other trees may wait for spring
To bloom, but with its bright
Star-blossoms hung along the bough
The star-tree blooms each night.

Origin of Pumpernickel?

Osnabrueck, the industrial city in the province of Hanover, has undergone another bombing and I am wondering if a certain old tower in that city has been blown to dust. In 1400 there was a great famine in Hanover, and the bread given to the poor of Osnabrueck by the government was baked in that tower. The bread was called "bona panicula," and the tower is still known as "Pernickel." And, according to the wise men of Osnabrueck, that's the way pumpernickel was born.

BURMA PILOT.

They asked him after the scrap what secret thing
He thought of, caught up there at twelve thousand-plus
Charging, and firing, and zooming—a broken truss
Dangling—and smoke-fog in his reddened eyes. . . .
Those five sharp bursts—one foe in flames, and one
Streaking for home, a lost blur in the skies.
"What were you thinking of then, old son-of-a-gun?"
He paused and frowned, his tired wits recollecting;
Shifted his weight to the other foot, and smiled.
"Well, 'twasn't at all what I had been expecting—
Maybe, in times like that, your mind goes wild.
I seemed to hear Dad say, like he used to do:
'If a guy goes after you, lick him or I'll lick you!'"

EYESTRAIN—A HEALTH PROBLEM.

EYESTRAIN is not a figment of the imagination. Should your physician tell you that your headaches may be caused by ocular fatigue he is quite within the bounds of reason. In fact, a sizable number of symptoms, including upsets within the digestive tract, may be traced to this source. Just why some people object to wearing corrective glasses is difficult to understand particularly when relief may be forthcoming. It is clear that muscles and nerves which lie so close to the brain, as those which operate the eyeballs, may give rise to numerous manifestations. Not long ago a woman suffering from indigestion of some months' standing was persuaded to don suitable spectacles. So much improvement in general health followed that her alimentary canal decided to behave.

Now vision should be natural. It should not require effort on the part of the seeing apparatus to enable one to read. We must not forget that altho the individual is not aware of blurring type, nevertheless the structures within the "optics" may be working overtime to prevent this very circumstance. Thus, perfect eyesight may come about thru a type of exertion of which one has no knowledge.

Up to the age of 45 we are supposed to possess a good deal of reserve power. We can transfer the gaze easily from the newspaper to an object out in the yard. But when it is necessary to glance back and forth frequently we may experience some delay in focusing or, as we say, "seeing clearly."

Most of us realize that we should avoid extreme exhaustion. School children particularly may fail to grow and develop normally if they are worn out constantly. In this connection refractive errors play an important rôle. As a rule, our textbooks are printed in large type and on excellent paper so as to avoid glare. But the studious youngster may lessen his powers of vision if he is obliged to do much close work. This, on the assumption that his need for glasses has been ignored. All too often such a situation is followed by poor appetite and loss of weight.

But what about headaches which afflict adults more frequently than children? The pain may center almost anywhere in the cranium. The principal locations are within the orbits, the lower forehead, and the back of the head. Many will experience fair comfort early in the morning with a sense of increasing tightness as the afternoon advances. Some few will complain of a blinding ache toward the end of the day. More often than not the elimination of eyestrain will solve the difficulty.

Of course, body resistance must be considered. It may be that there is some need for additional vitamin B complex or one of its fractions—riboflavin. In other words, malnutrition can wreck the organs of sight. With the one who presents signs of trouble, but is well otherwise, a visit to the eye doctor may prove to be a profitable adventure.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 30.

1. Hairpin curves should make you think primarily of Florida Colorado Iowa Ohio.
2. The most conclusive proof that the earth is round would be:
   It rotates. One can go around it. The horizon. Its shadow on the moon during an eclipse.
3. The man highest in rank on a railroad train crew is the Conductor Engineer Fireman Brakeman.
4. Which one of these slang terms refers to electricity?
   Dough Plug Juice Jug.
5. A station wagon is associated chiefly with the Police Railroad Farm Army.
6. Language develops by a process of invention or accidental discovery, much as our industrial progress has taken place. Our vocabulary is always changing, for old words gradually drop out of current use while new ones are constantly being added. Today I'll allot one point credit for each correct matching of the slang terms below with their meanings.

[a] Clock-eyed
[b] Green-eyed
[c] Pie-eyed
[d] Glassy-eyed
[e] Cock-eyed

[v] Drunk or intoxicated
[w] Immovable or dead
[x] Lazy or a shirker
[y] Crazy or impractical
[z] Jealous

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

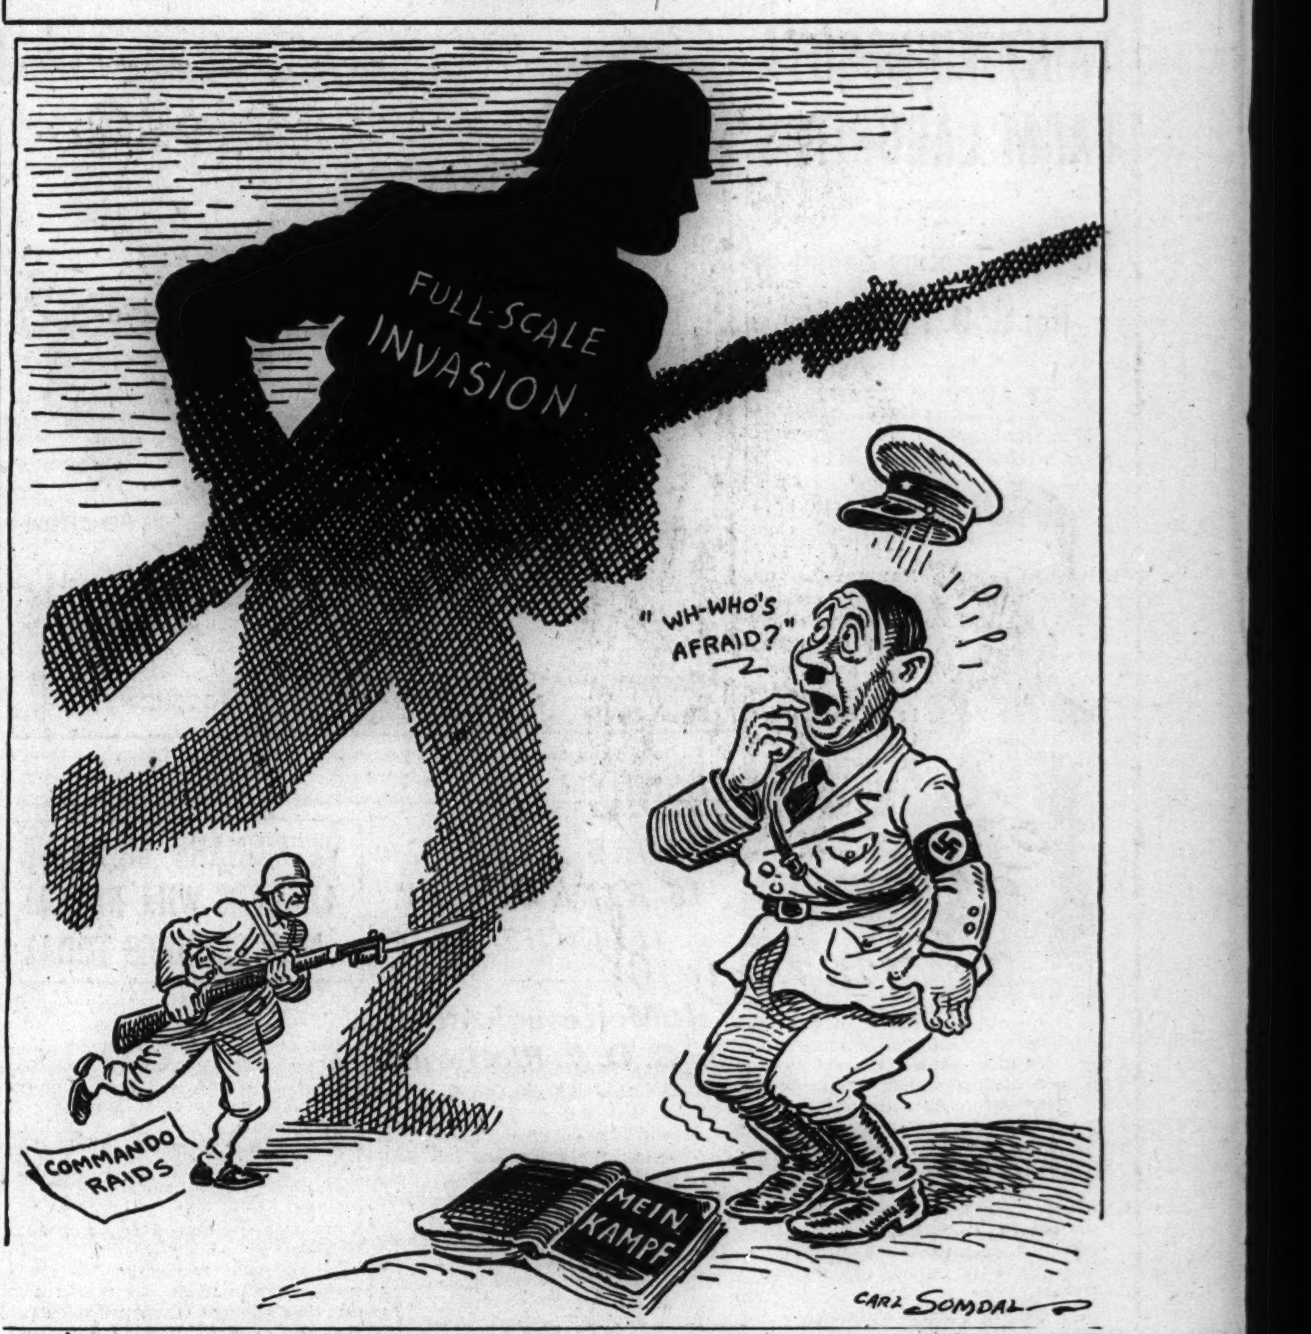
COMING EVENTS



VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

RENT CEILINGS.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Cost of living is changing more in some localities than others. Incomes are rising in some areas but not in others. Regardless of these differences, the OPA fixes rents at the level of a certain date for all of them. Some landlords, more considerate of their tenants than others, resisted the upward trend as long as possible. Others advanced rents at the earliest possible opportunity and are now reaping the benefit of their foresightedness. The local boards that have been set up by the government to hear complaints seem to be mere puppets, with a routine answer to all incoming complaints. If such local boards were allowed to assume the responsibility of really adjusting rents and remedying inequalities, this might give rise to so many differences and contradictions that the central agency at Washington would be discredited. So the show is carried on as a sop to the dumb public and at its expense. Landlords are made to feel that the government is considering their case on its merits, and tenants feel the government is looking out for their rights and welfare—while the board finds there can be no reason for changing rents from what they happened to be last March 1.

REJECTED FOR SERVICE.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Almost two weeks ago I was rejected from military service because I failed to pass the army physical. The officer at the induction center told me I would receive my official notification in about two or three days. I have inquired twice since then and I am very surprised and hurt at the cool, almost disdainful way my board is treating me. I coöperated to the fullest of my ability and was more than willing to do my part had I been accepted. They were very nice then. Meanwhile I am forced into an idleness that is an unfair hardship, I believe. No one will hire me until my status is made definitely clear. I fully realize these are war times and the boards are busy, but industry is begging for men also. What I'd like to know is, Is being rejected on a par with a dishonorable discharge? F. A. R.

TRIBUTE TO A RACE.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The cartoon, "She Has Taught Them Well," by the distinguished artist Mr. Parrish in this morning's TRIBUNE is the biggest in conception and execution I have ever seen in a white newspaper relative to the Negro race. It is rare, even in these days, in pictures or words to see these fundamental truths stated so unequivocally with such sincere understanding. This one picture is worth billions of words toward attaining the divine ideals of justice and brotherhood, particularly desirable in the nation at the present time.

CHARLES C. DAWSON.

"PEACH PIT DRIVE?"

CULTURAL AMBASSADORS.

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 17.—I read the report from Quito, Ecuador, by Clay Gowran, concerning recent experiments of the United States in sending artists to South America. In reply to the criticism of American musical offerings by the Ecuadorians, and to THE TRIBUNE's editorial criticism that Nelson Rockefeller has not done enough to make our country familiar with Latin American art and literature, I point out that the chief object of the Rockefeller program is the exchange of cultural ambassadors between the American republics and a highly successful exchange of ideas and ideals has been achieved. In the last winter many artists from South America visited the United States. Is it possible that THE TRIBUNE was unaware of the visit to Chicago of such eminent musicians and educators as Santa Cruz and Philomena Sallis from Santiago; Francesco Mignone, Liddy Mignone, and Sa Pareira from Rio de Janeiro? These are only a few of the visitors from South America, but the people I mention spent weeks in the middle west lecturing and performing, and their music was broadcast over national networks on many different occasions.

I agree with Mr. Gowran that the political success of these trips is a debatable point and would be difficult to prove, but the artistic success of the two groups with which I am the most familiar, the Yale Glee club and the Quinteto de Viento, was definitely proved by the extremely enthusiastic comments of the press, and by enthusiastic and appreciative audiences in such cities as Buenos Aires, Lima, Santiago, and Rio de Janeiro. In short, it is quite evident that both groups created good will in the majority of their stops, and the audiences received their performances in the same spirit in which they were given.

V-MAIL.

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 14.—THE TRIBUNE has done a good job of publicizing the new government sponsored V-mail, but apparently many of the parents have not heard of this service, which places the mail in the boys' hands overseas in the most expeditious manner. V-mail letter sheets are available in many postoffices and will be available in retail stores in the near future. If those writing to boys overseas will be sure to obtain the official V-mail stationery, their letters will reach the boys much more promptly.

THEY LIKE CHICAGO.

Chanute Field, Ill., Aug. 18.—I would like to express to the people and the government of Chicago our heartfelt appreciation of the very fine treatment we soldiers are afforded when we visit. You folks are so helpful to us—so anxious to do things for us—that we really regard Chicago as our home town. Morale is high at Chanute. We have a fine camp and are very lucky to be located near to such a grand city.

PVT. R. B. AND BUDDIES.

FLAGPOLES OR WAR MATERIAL?

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Thoughtless flag wavers on the south side—and probably elsewhere in the city—are erecting iron flagpole symbols of block patriotism. In my immediate neighborhood there are two, at 71st street and Indiana avenue and at 71st and Michigan. The two inch iron pipe used weighs 4½ pounds to the foot. If every one of the thousands of blocks in Chicago follows the example of these two, there will be enough iron planted on street corners to build a sizable warship. C. A. L.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—In the square mile from 79th to 87th street, between Ashland and Halsted, I'm sure there are five carloads of iron pipes put up for a flag on every corner, and on some corners as many as four posts for the block. Don't you think we ought to gather them up for the scrap pile and get a wooden pole?

LOUIS E. GAWLEY.

KEY CAMPAIGN STARTED HERE.

Forest Park, Ill., Aug. 15.—The person who suggested in the Voice of the People that old keys should be turned in to augment our metal supply, should be complimented. I noticed that a couple of weeks after the suggestion was made a drive was started and is now in full swing. MRS. HELEN M. KROPP.

INSURANCE PREMIUMS.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I do not have the policy in my possession on which I am paying insurance premiums for a friend. I am named beneficiary on it. I have nothing to show that I am paying the premiums except the monthly receipts.

2. Since I am no blood relation to the insured I am wondering if I can collect in case of death? The insured has several sons who could well afford to pay the premiums, but they refuse to do so.

3. The wife of the man insured is still living. Should she die ahead of the husband can the sons collect the money under the circumstances I describe?

D. M.

1. Your rights would depend largely on the wording of the policy. We advise you not to make such payments without seeing the policy.

2. In general, the law requires an insurable interest to make an insurance policy valid. If you are named as the beneficiary it seems possible that you might be defeated on this ground. If the policy is payable to the estate of the insured, then you might be defeated by his making a will in favor of some other person. In general, the payment of insurance premiums is a losing gamble since obviously the insurance company must take in more than they pay out, otherwise they could not cover their overhead. We would consider it unwise for you to carry the insurance unless you, in fact, have some financial benefit from the person's life.

3. If you desire further advice, you should have a personal interview with an attorney.

STATE'S FIGHTING SPIRIT DEPICTED IN LEGION MARCH

Labor, Civic, and Lodge Units Join Parade.

More than 37 drum and bugle corps and Legion bands lent color to the four hour parade of 6,500 persons, which was swelled by floats of labor, civic, and fraternal organizations.

Altho sobered because many of their sons are in the war, the Legionnaires were out in full force for their 24th annual convention. Wartime travel conditions proved no bar either to the marching column or the convention crowd. Visitors continued to flow into the city today, taxing housing facilities in Peoria and Pekin.

Turnout Exceeds Expectations.

N. Curtis Cation, state commander, said the number of bands and drum and bugle corps had exceeded expectations, largely because there will be no such activity at the national convention next month in Kansas City, Mo.

The Commonwealth Edison post of Chicago won the senior A corps prize in the parade competition. Senior class B was won by post 232 of Chicago, and the Sons of the American Legion award went to the Quincy post.

Caucuses Held.

In the drum and bugle corps competition held separately, the Commonwealth Edison post was first. In the Sons of the American Legion, the Quincy post won the drum and bugle corps prize.

The day's program was devoted mainly to festivities after division leaders had held caucuses which lasted into this morning. From these gatherings came the announcement that Clarence Stelle of Mount Vernon had withdrawn from the race for senior vice commander, the most important post for election tomorrow.

Stelle's withdrawal prompted some observers to predict that Dr. L. W. Esper of Springfield would be elected senior vice commander and thus be in line for advancement to the state command next year. The only other candidate mentioned was Oscar Berga of Amboy.

Legionnaires gathered in their annual memorial service tonight and heard an address by Gov. Dwight H. Green, who praised the rôle of America's soldiers in the war.

Auxiliary organizations of the Legion continued their sessions today, with the women's auxiliary voting on a slate of officers headed by Mrs. Norman L. Sheehe of Rockford. The women's auxiliary of the Forty and Eight named Mrs. Helen Forbes of Oneida as La Chapeau departmental.

Thousands of Chicago motorists yesterday had their first glimpse of the Wolverine, the navy's first Great Lakes aircraft carrier, commissioned Saturday. The big ship, formerly the cruise ship Seeandbee, lay in the lake off the naval armory and autoists had a good view of her from the Outer drive.

JAKE'S TWO MAN WAR PLANT TOPS U. S. HONOR ROLL

Nelson Suggests They Slow Down Some.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23 (AP).—The two man production staff of a plant in Bay City, Mich.—a 60 year old employer and his 79 year old employé—received a large American flag poster, official recognition as a labor-management production drive committee, and a letter from Donald M. Nelson today commending their efforts.

Jake Sparling wrote President Roosevelt that he and Percy Fogelsonger, his entire "staff," had been working an average of 15 hours a day, seven days a week, and had made 18,000 steel flanges for war machinery.

Sparling said "the old gent and myself" would like a pennant.

Example for Nation.

Mr. Roosevelt sent the letter to Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, who not only sent a large American flag poster surmounting the inscription "Give It Your Best," but ordered Sparling's name to lead all the rest of the plants formally entered in the war production drive "in recognition of the example the entire working force of your plant is setting for the rest of the nation."

Nelson suggested the working schedule of Sparling and Fogelsonger was "a little too strenuous for some even younger workmen to maintain, even tho you two gentlemen seem to thrive on it."

This two man war plant makes flanges used on wooden pipes that are installed in large war plants.

Plant Is "Expanded."

Sparling ran the tiny shop by himself before the war, making pulleys and doing odd jobs repairing machinery. His expansion for war production consisted of hiring Fogelsonger, who had been in the habit of spending much time in the shop anyway.

Labor-management relations have been "ideal," according to Sparling. When they need money, he explained, he goes to the pipe company which uses their flanges to "take out what we need for grub and living expenses and buy bonds with what's left."

A Six-Point Plan for Travelers

BECAUSE railroad workers are all war workers in the first line—doing a vital job; and BECAUSE every engine, every car, every foot of track—all are war production machines; and BECAUSE each precious train load—be it men, fuel, material or machines—means everything now,
The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad asks you—as a patriotic citizen—to aid our war effort by following this six-point plan to expedite necessary civilian travel:

3—Cancel those arrangements promptly when your travel plans are changed.
5—Purchase round-trip tickets—saving money and your time as well as ours.
6—Have your trips begin and end near the mid-week, to avoid rush over week-ends.

GIRL, 9, KILLED BY AUTO AFTER LEAVING CHURCH

Betty Ann Schultz, 9 years old, 7330 South Sangamon street, was struck by an automobile yesterday in front of the Salem Evangelical church, 6824 Emerald avenue, and injured fatally. She just had left the church. She died shortly afterward in Evangelical hospital. The driver of the car that hit the child was Elmer C. Klein, 5946 South Fairfield avenue.

Patrick Casey, 38, of 4503 Magnolia avenue, died of injuries received Aug. 21 when he was struck by an auto at Winthrop and Berwyn avenues driven by Herbert Polin, 2830 Estes avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 457 persons had lost their lives in auto accidents in Cook county since the first of the year. Of these, 352 were killed in Chicago, where 14,059 had been injured.

REPORTS $400 JEWEL THEFT.

Miss Lillian F. Carney, 201 East Delaware place, complained to Chicago avenue police yesterday that $400 worth of jewelry had been stolen from a dresser drawer in her apartment.

MAYOR PRAISES BLACK-OUT, BUT SOUNDS WARNING

One Light Can Guide Foe—and 217 Showed!

Chicagoans were officially praised by Mayor Kelly last night for their coöperation in the city's first test black-out Aug. 13.

Mayor Kelly, who is United States coördinator for the Office of Civilian Defense in the Chicago metropolitan area, spoke over radio station W-G-N. The black-out, he said, was the largest one ever attempted, involving an area of 50,000 square miles with a population of more than 12,000,000.

A complete survey of the results has been made by the OCD, the mayor said, and the analysis shows that Chicagoans performed an outstanding job.

Stresses Magnitude of Task.

"The entire Chicago metropolitan area," Mayor Kelly said, "with its great population, its thousands of factories and defense plants, its endless miles of tracks moving countless cars of war machinery and goods, its millions of lights and signs, all had to be made to disappear into nothingness.

"The accomplishment was no accident. It was the result of ample warning by newspapers and radio and the diligence of air raid wardens and captains in each block."

In reporting that police listed 217 violations, Mayor Kelly said: "This may seem few when the total number of persons participating is considered, but remember, it takes only one violation to aid the enemy."

Fine Wilful Offenders.

No decision has been made regarding the majority of the violators, he said, but several who were wilful offenders have been fined.

In answer to complaints that the sirens which heralded the raid were inaudible in many sections, Mayor Kelly told the radio audience that contracts have been awarded for huge Victory sirens which will make themselves heard distinctly all over the city.

"Let us pray that we shall never know the havoc of an enemy air raid," he said, "but while we pray let us prepare until we have proved that we have guarded and protected ourselves to the limit."

CALLS ON MOOSE FOR SUPPORT OF U. S. WAR EFFORT

United States Sen. James J. Davis [R., Pa.] called upon members of the Loyal Order of Moose yesterday to throw their entire resources and strength into the war effort. The senator, who is director general of the order, spoke at the opening of its four day 54th annual convention in Mooseheart, the order's school and home for children near Aurora.

"This is a war of survival," he said. "We as an organized fraternal society can help considerably to bring it to a successful conclusion for our people if we throw every resource we have into the fight."

More than 1,000 delegates, representing 1,500 lodges in the United States and Canada, were told 30,000 members are in the armed services and that the membership has bought more than 3 million dollars' worth of war bonds. The convention, originally scheduled for Milwaukee, has been stripped of all parades and social function and is stressing larger purchases of war bonds and civilian defense activity.

NEGROES CHARGE DISCRIMINATION BY OPA IN CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro council, charged in a letter to President Roosevelt today that Leon Henderson's Office of Price Administration is discriminating against Negroes in Chicago and other cities.

The 50 OPA headquarters in Chicago [one for each ward] employ 270 clerks and supervisors, of which only six clerks are Negroes, Brown wrote. Nationally, he said, the OPA employs 5,000 attorneys, of whom only five are Negroes.

Brown also charged that living conditions in Chicago's Negro districts are intolerable and a menace to health. Landlords, he said, have been able to raise their rents because of the March 1, 1942, ceiling established for Chicago, instead of the Jan. 1, 1941, ceiling established for Detroit, Cleveland and other cities. He reported that 100,000 residents of Chicago's southside "substandard" area have signed petitions demanding that OPA Administrator Henderson change the Chicago rent ceiling to Jan. 1, 1941.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Tom Erznoznik, 1651 South Homan avenue.]

THE QUESTION.

Have you ever done any amateur detective work?

WHERE ASKED.

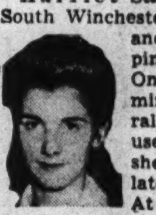
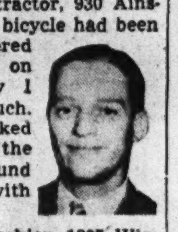
THE ANSWERS.



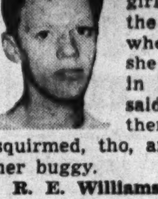
Harriet Stasik, messenger, 5238 South Winchester avenue—My sister and I keep our bobby pins in separate boxes. One day when all of mine were gone, I naturally thought she had used them, but she said she hadn't. A few hours later they were back. At dinner that night I noticed one stray pin still holding down an artificial wave in my brother's hair.



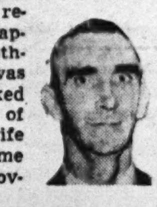
Sam Handler, contractor, 930 Ainslie street—When my bicycle had been stolen I remembered some worn initials on the seat that only I would recognize as such. Every day I checked the bicycles on the school yard. I found mine camouflaged with a coat of paint.

Peggy De Vries, cashier, 1205 Winnemac avenue—Every time I took off my stockings I was positive I tucked them into my slippers. Later I'd find the empty shoes but no sign of the hose. Then one night I caught my little puppy dragging one across the floor. In real sleuth fashion I followed him to the hiding place of the others—under the day bed.

Alma Wimmer, office worker, 5747 South Trumbull avenue—When we bought a cut of meat that was too big for the refrigerator in winter we'd put it out on the window ledge. Several disappeared and each time we blamed some hungry man. The next spring I discovered our Great Dane dog digging up the bones.



Marion Huntowski, student, 815 North Wood street—Three of our new kittens were missing. The little neighbor girl had called on them the day before, but when I questioned her she patted the blankets in her doll buggy and said she hadn't seen them. The kittens squirmed, tho, and I spied them in her buggy.



R. E. Williams, Salem, Ill.—There were only three people in the house who might be held responsible for the disappearance of my brother's cigarets. That was before women smoked publicly, so neither of us suspected his wife until the day I came home early and discovered her.

FORECASTING BALDNESS

This young man has a good head of hair and doesn't feel that he will ever be bald. Yet his scalp is laden with dandruff, itches constantly, and he loses a great deal of hair each day.

In a few years later it will be too late, and his appearance will be permanently marred, a serious handicap to anyone. Don't let baldness come to you since scientific Warner treatment and proper care afterward can prevent it in most cases.

There is no charge or obligation for a scalp examination and consultation. Examination and treatment are given in strictest privacy. FEES FOR TREATMENT ARE VERY MODERATE AND ARE PAYABLE AS THE TREATMENTS ARE TAKEN—NOT IN ADVANCE. There is a separate department for women.

Other Warner offices located in Boston, Pittsburgh, Hartford, Philadelphia, Detroit and Los Angeles.

THREE LEXINGTON OFFICERS CITED FOR HEROIC ACTS

'Praise Is Well Merited,' Says Stanley Johnston.

The navy department in Washington, D. C., announced Saturday the awarding of letters of commendation for distinguished service to three officers of the aircraft carrier Lexington, which was lost in the epic Coral sea battle last May.

The officers, well known to Stanley Johnston, CHICAGO TRIBUNE war correspondent, who was aboard the Lexington and the only newspaper man present to witness and report the engagement, were Commander Alexander Foster Junker, engineer officer, of Wilkinsburg, Pa.; Commander Herbert Spencer Duckworth, air officer, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Commander Walter W. Gilmore, supply officer, of Williamsport, Pa. Gilmore was killed in action.

The letters of commendation praised Commander Junker for helping to keep the Lexington afloat, Commander Duckworth for directing air activities aboard ship and evacuating the wounded, and Commander Gilmore for contributing to the high morale of the ship's company.

Praise Fully Merited.

This praise was fully merited, said Johnston, who saw all three men in action during heavy attack from Japanese planes.

Comm. Junker, who spent 20 years in submarine service before joining the Lexington, was chief engineer of the carrier. When Comm. [Pop] Healy, damage control officer, was killed Junker took over his duties, according to Johnston.

"Commander Junker directed pumping, shoring, and other operations and kept the ship afloat," said Johnston. "He kept at his work until 4 p. m., when he received orders to get the men up from below. He and Lieut. Comm. Michael Coffin went thru all departments, gathered up the men and showed them how to get thru fierce fires to the flight deck. He worked calmly and saved many lives at the risk of his own."

Directed Plane Launching.

Commander Duckworth, recalled Johnston, stood on the bridge constantly exposed to machine gune fire and shrapnel. Thruout, said Johnston, Duckworth directed the launching and landing of air squadrons, and also watched for enemy torpedoes and bombs. Later he directed the evacuating of wounded from the carrier to a destroyer. Johnston related one remark by Duckworth which he said he'll always remember.

"Commander Duckworth had eagle eyes," said Johnston. "He saw three torpedoes coming which would miss if the Lexington kept to her course. He called out, 'Hold it steady, captain, hold it steady, I've got two torpedoes to port and one to starboard!' The captain 'held it steady,' the torpedoes missed."

Johnston knew Commander Gilmore as "one of the most efficient supply officers in the navy." He had so organized his vast department, according to Johnston, that the carrier could have remained unexpectedly at sea for weeks. He was killed by a 1,000 pound bomb from a Japanese dive bomber.

In addition to the three Lexington officers, two junior officers in charge of armed guard crews aboard merchant vessels were also commended by the navy. They were Ensign Julian Wooten Bailey, Beverly Hills, Cal., and Ensign Frederick Strong Fink Jr., Kenton, O.

ARMY IN DESERT TRAINS ON HEAT, SAND, RATTLERS

With U. S. Army on California Desert Training Maneuvers, Aug. 23 (AP).—Since it's a tough army he wants, Uncle Sam came here to get it—because this, friend, is tough country, and a man has to be tough merely to survive it, let alone work in it.

But that's just what thousands of lean, hard bitten troopers of the armored divisions have been doing in the California desert ever since last April. They have battled sand and grime. They have found rattlesnakes in their bedding rolls, run tarantulas out of their post exchanges and stepped on poisonous vinegarroons that can frighten the ordinary scorpion merely by looking at him.

Most of all, tho, they have fought and overcome the heat—heat that sends the thermometer into upper registers reserved in more normal climates for baking bread.

This desert is recognized as the most grueling training ground to be found anywhere, including Libya's wastes and the Gobi. What they are doing is in preparation for mass maneuvering, which probably will get under way in a week or ten days. It is expected to be the final dress rehearsal before these seasoned divisions are shipped overseas for actual combat.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and personally, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

C. T. P. and B. R. P ask: "Why the sudden order that brothers assigned to the same ship are to be separated? My brother and I have served aboard the same ship for several hitches, and now we understand we must be separated. Why must we be separated at this late date?"

ANSWER: The navy considers it advisable in the interests of the families that brothers not be assigned to the same vessel in wartime because if the ship should be sunk, the loss of two members of a family at the same time might be too great a shock to the families.

M. M. S. writes: "I was drafted into the army in May, 1941. In December, 1941, after seven months of service, I was stricken with a ruptured duodenal ulcer, for which an emergency operation was performed. After two months of hospitalization I was given a disability discharge. To whom can I write in Washington to see if I am to receive some sort of compensation?"

ANSWER: Write to Director of Claims, Veterans' Administration, Washington, D. C. Enclose in your letter a photostatic copy of your discharge and or the certificate of disability.

P. G. K. writes: "I enlisted in the merchant marine and I am now told I'm not eligible for the regular army and navy government insurance. Is this correct? If it is, what kind of insurance can I get and where?"

ANSWER: You have been correctly informed as to your ineligibility for national service life insurance. You are, however, covered by a $5,000 blanket policy, the premiums of which are borne by the government or the company owning the vessel. In addition, you can apply for "civilian war injury insurance" available to all civilians regardless of age, occupation, or physical condition. These policies will pay $5,000 in case of death or total disability, and a maximum of $500 for hospitalization and surgical expense. The annual premium will be $5, and the insurance now is available thru 54 coöperating casualty insurance companies.

A. J. D. Jr. asks: "Will you please tell me if it is possible for a man 25 years old and who has been married three months to apply for the volunteer officers' training?"

ANSWER: If your draft board has classified you 3-A or if, under the new type classification, you are classified 1-A-3 or 1-A-4, you would be eligible in so far as your dependency status is concerned. You would have to qualify in all other respects as to education and capacity to absorb the training and demonstrate your ability as a leader.

G. K. asks: "How would a registrant with a double hernia be classified? Are they to be called into service?"

ANSWER: Now that the 1-B classification has been eliminated, it appears that it is up to the examining physician to determine whether the registrant is physically able to serve as a 1-A. If not, about the only other classification would be 4-F, unless the war board determines to draft former 1-B men for war production.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 23.—Come, now! Ida Lupino is too fine an actress to follow in the footsteps of Lon Chaney. For the past month she's played a cripple in "Life Begins at 8:30," wearing one shoe 3 inches higher than the other. Now she's taking osteopathic treatment and massage to help those cramped muscles. She'd better have a care. Many people think the agony Lon Chaney experienced in all his make-ups shortened his life. We can't afford to lose Ida. . . . Well, one good thing that's happened on the location of "For Whom the Bell Tolls" is that Gary Cooper, Ingrid Bergman, and the rest of them had a chance to pick out their own Christmas trees, and have already arranged with the men up there for their delivery. They're working against time, because snow begins flying Sept. 15.

Valuable Data.

Walter Marvin, who was out here recently with Tex McCrary, organizing our high schools for air corps training, knew Amelia Earhart well. Rosalind Russell, who will portray Amelia in "Stand By to Die," got him backed into a corner and pumped him dry. Walter's wife made the first cross-country commercial flights in an effort to interest women in aviation. Later, Amelia was hired for the same job, and the two women became close friends—until Amelia dined with them one night and met the Marvin children. "After that," says Walter, "she was so crazy about the kids she never knew we were on earth." . . . Incidentally, in "Stand By to Die," Rosalind and Fred MacMurray mark up a record for long distance dining. They have soup in a New York speakeasy, fish at a Philadelphia hotel, chicken creole in New Orleans, and apple pie somewhere in Virginia. Rosalind, as Amelia, does the hop-scotching in her plane and Fred's a newspaper man who tags along.

IDA LUPINO.

Man Bites Dog!

The war has softened George Bernard Shaw, so far as Hollywood's concerned. When Sam Wood wrote and asked him if he'd do the screen play of "Crail's Apothecary," Shaw wrote back, "Send me the story." . . . Arnold Pressburger is again negotiating with Metro for Charles Laughton—to play the Czech beer baron in Fritz Lang's "Never Surrender." The part portrays a Gestapo heel, crawling with menace—custom built for Charles. Metro nixed it once before because he was tied up for "Kim." Now there's a hope the Kim rôle may be postponed so that he'll be able to do both. . . . Gregory Ratoff gave Beatrice Blinn, Crane Wilbur's ex-wife, quite a part in "Something to Shout About." Before that, she was lucky to get a bit. She was Greg's leading lady years ago on the stage in "The Kibitzer."

Putting on the Ritz.

When Jimmy Ritz wanted to take Hedy Lamarr out to dinner, she said, "Okay—but bring your brothers!" I'm surprised that Hedy or Marlene hasn't had an evening out with all the Ritzes, Marxes, Orsattis, and Hakims. That would make a pretty magazine spread. And what a title for it: "A star looks down!" . . . Before Arline Judge left for the east, she called up Aviatrix Paddy Smith and said, "It's ridiculous for you to stop at that expensive hotel. Come on over and use my house while I'm away." First morning in the new home, Paddy was awakened by the cook, who reported there were 21 navy men in the garden waiting to be fed—no food in the house—cook's day off—and good-by! Paddy got up, bought food, fed the 21 sailors and a few friends who'd dropped in, then called the manager and said: "I like your hotel better than mine. Can I have my old room back?"

Hard on Heather.

"The Undying Monster" should be just that when it reaches the screen. It's about people called werewolves. Dr. Summerville, technical director, says there've been only four recorded cases in America, but over 2,000 in Europe, mostly since the war. It appears they go from humans to animals and become clever killers, but lose all human feelings. He says casting Heather Angel for the lead is good because it's frail, delicate women who are mostly subject to the disease. Wonder how Heather's fans will like it? . . .

Land Sakes!

Ann Sothern told me that she thought being a dancer was pretty strenuous, until Bob Sterling started teaching her golf and tennis. She's all over in the knees like a spavined horse and says anybody who says those sports relax you! ! !

. . . Had a letter from Veronica Lake, who's doing all her own housework and taking care of husband and baby in Seattle. She does a bit of bond selling on the side, and says, "I really don't know how Paramount's getting on without me, but this is the life I love." . . . Did you hear about the little starlet who was getting $50 a week, then had a date with the boss, after which the family moved in? Now her salary's been upped to $150, father gets $100, mother gets $100, but the singing teacher gets $250 'cause she had a smart agent? . . . Out at Charlie Foy's supper club the other night, Laird Cregar picked little Charlie up in his arms and did a "Liza Crossing the Ice" that tore the joint apart. . . . Geraldine Fitzgerald is wearing a new gold clasp with seven stars on it. . . . When Arthur Treacher was looking for trees the other day, a man tried to sell him a decrepit looking specimen. Arthur looked the tree over and remarked, "Veddy sorry, old man, but I can get a better grade of bark out of my dog."

Set for Het.

Irene Manning is hoping that her husband, Het Mannheim, will be transferred here from Louisiana. In the meantime, she's practicing up on cooking. . . . Walter Huston may do a play on Broadway for Moss Hart this year. But what do you bet Hollywood won't let him go? . . . Warners had their own cat trouble yesterday, and I don't mean female. Freddie March had to hold a cat for a closeup in "Mark Twain," but its purring sounded like an electric motor, so the prop boy was sent out into the alley to get one not quite so contented. The one they found just looked unhappy as all get out. . . . James Wong Howe, ace cameraman, has been collecting information on Chinese films for more than a year, and recently turned it over to Dr. Hsia, China's New York minister of information for the motion picture council on propaganda. It proved so valuable that the Chinese ambassador, Dr. Hu Shih, sent a man out here to get additional data from Jimmy before he left with the "Air Force" company for Tampa, Fla.

BY CECIL SMITH.

The coöperative effort of the workers in the Lockheed aircraft factory is currently being celebrated in "Wings for the Eagle." Botchily written, and acted largely in a spirit of crude horseplay, the film unfortunately fails to do justice to a theme which deserves dignified and impressive treatment. What a supreme gift the Hollywood producers seem to have for cheapening patriotism!

Even tho "Wings for the Eagle" is the brain child of small and opportunist minds, it is by no means unentertaining, if you like the kind of popular comedy in which young men are always knocking one another down or kicking each other in the pants. I am no authority on the attainments of Lloyd Bacon as a director, but he appears to be one of those unprepossessing Hollywood craftsmen who fully believes in some of the libelous estimates that have been made concerning the average mental age of a movie audience.

Particularly I think he should be held responsible for failing to capitalize upon such assets as Ann Sheridan has. In the cinema world, where hundreds of colorless girls walk across the screen every day, Miss Sheridan's combination of beauty and talent is nothing to treat casually. But up to now, in the pictures I have seen her in, her best potentiality has remained largely unrealized. If somebody could teach her a drier and more brittle delivery, she could be a top flight comedienne like Jean Arthur or the late Carole Lombard. In her present stage of development, she punches her lines too hard and misses half their effect; but she obviously has the talent, and some one ought to be wise enough to help her finish her dramatic schooling.

◆

As a self-assertive young man who develops from a draft evader into a lieutenant in the air force, Dennis Morgan is reasonable and personable, except when Mr. Lloyd's direction forces him into overacted pantomime.

Jack Carson and George Tobias have hokey assignments, which they fill in the expected manner, and Russell Arms is appealing as the young flyer who inevitably gets killed in every aviation picture.

"As Maureen Daly says, there is something so sensuously beautiful and 'pleasant about Sunday mornings in the summer. Strolling along home after church services—sun, trees and shade making delightful patterns on the street and newly mown grass. . . . The lazy drone of an airplane motor in the azure sky. . . . Familiar homes, cars and dear friends. Fleeting memories and joys to come filling our thoughts. Then home—the sun streaming in the open windows, curtains moving in the gentle breeze, luscious odors emanating from the kitchen, little brother sprawled out on the floor over the 'funnies.' Sammy Kaye's Sunday serenade, and dad peacefully smoking his pipe and reading the newspaper. Our librarian was startled the other morning by the appearance of a small yellow bird who made himself at home investigating the premises. One superstitious staff member said right off that it was bad luck for a bird to fly into a room, but he was talked down by others who said that for a yellow bird to come into a room was a good omen. The little fellow stayed around long enough for the staff to haul down books and identify him as a member of the warbler family. Then he hopped to a window sill, took his bearings and soared off into the blue, leaving everybody feeling very happy.

Avocados Again.

We seem to have started a mild sort of controversy by publishing that letter about planting avocado seeds. We resume the discussion in answer to an appeal from Mrs. G. J. Steitz, whose mother, a shut-in, grows plants as a hobby and wants to know how to raise one from an avocado seed. We give her opinions from Mrs. Reinhardt J. Wagner and Mrs. Clarence C. Olsen, both of whom have had unusual success. Both adhere to the school that believes in plumping the seed into a pot of loamy soil, covering it entirely, watering it regularly and letting nature take its course. Their plants have long ago outgrown their original pots, and Mrs. Wagner's stands 22 inches high and has 36 leaves. Mrs. W. has a strong hunch that her plants grew so beautifully because the seed came from Florida, but she cagily apologizes to chambers of commerce in other avocado growing states in case her contention is wrong.

Baby of Three Is Too Young to Study Music

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The subject of children starting almost in babyhood to learn to play a developed sort of musical instrument, such as piano or violin, is one on which there might logically be some disagreement. When a young and indisputable genius, such as the child Mozart is considered, we have an individual problem to decide, but when a child shows no more than the usual early interest in rhythm and tone, it is another matter. In the following letter my advice has been asked and I have given my opinion.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"We have a little boy who is 3 years and 3 months old. In your opinion, do you think it is advisable for him to start taking violin lessons at that early age? In all fairness I want to say that he does not show extraordinary musical talent.

"My husband feels that if he starts to play at an early age the love of music will be instilled in him and will grow with him. You see, my husband plays the violin, not as a means of livelihood, but for pleasure, and he really is very eager for our son to have a good musical background.

"However, I think that, at our son's age, it would be detrimental to his health to undertake this. His life is all play, and certainly he doesn't understand that music consists of more than turning the radio on and off. I seem to think that taking music lessons is too much of a responsibility for a child just past 3."

And this was my reply:

I believe that your little boy is much too young to begin violin lessons. It is a very difficult instrument, exacting and physically confining for a small child. However, I am very sympathetic with your husband's desire to have the boy learn to play some instrument for his own pleasure. I think he might well lead up to that by letting the boy, for the present, experience music thru listening. You might get a phonograph or a radio-phonograph, and begin to buy records a few at a time for your little son to hear.

Even very young children develop likes and dislikes and show personal discrimination in music with which they are allowed to become familiar. There are selections that are made definitely for children and, while some of them are simple, there are those that are classics and which children come to enjoy. If you decide to do this, I would be happy to send you my list of phonograph companies having fine catalogs of new records.

Another suggestion is that you and your husband go to an excellent music store where they have some of the more primitive instruments. In some of the more progressive schools, for instance, they give children a chance to use these instruments just as they would a toy, and in that way the children develop a sense of rhythm and feeling for tone.

Campers Cheer and Jeer Mates in Own Circus

BY MARTHA MURPHY.

"You've seen potatoes with eyes, corn with ears, but you've never seen a show like the Camp Algonquin circus!" shouted a jodhpured lady ringmaster yesterday as she touched off the annual circus carnival of Camp Algonquin, nestled on the banks of the Fox river northwest of Chicago.

With eyes round pools of wonder, young campers watched the antics of homespun hula dancers and cavorting clowns, fidgeting as they waited their turn in the ring. Each of the 300 campers doubled as performer and audience. For the older ones, good natured jeering of the performance was as much fun as the sideshows.

* * *

"Ladeez and gentlemen—and infants!" the ringmaster called.

"Yipee—infants!" answered the old hands.

"He's doin' it wrong!" chortled the audience as a dancer "direct from Punkin' Center" misstepped. Punkin' Center couldn't see thru his lollypop paper hat.

"Git awn!" drawled a dusky "horse" to his cowboy as he galloped on hands and knees towards a "bull." "Hold still—I gotta catch ya!" he yelled to the "bull."

The Harlowarden Hot Shots and their Jitterbug Ballet—mere mites of girls moved slowly across the lawn in smiling derision of leaps and bounds.

* * *

To the tomtom beat of "Six Lessons from Madame La Zonga" a swivel hipped Mexican boy, maracas in each hand, conga-ed ecstatically. A little later his sister led a line of swaying hula dancers who—horrible fate!—were carried away by a band of savage cannibal kings.

With red flannel tongue lolling disconsolately, Leo the Lion snarled viciously at his trainer, disdaining the hoop thrust peremptorily in front of his nose. The trainer, kitchen chair hugged professionally to his side, hopped this way and that dodging Leo's clutching claws.

"Watch out! watch out!" the audience screamed.

Tigh rope walkers swayed precariously as they inched their way across a rope stretched on the ground. A horse with yellow crêpe paper tail brayed excitedly from the side lines.

* * *

This year's circus struck a topical note. Clowns labeled "air raid warden" wobbled around the ring, peering at the sky thru binoculars made of pop bottles. A salesman for a "brand new autymobile" barked its selling point as "Good tires—somethin' Uncle Sam ain't got!"

A human pipe organ, suddenly collapsing on the grass, brought forth calls of "They're on a sit-down strike!" Boxers from Mars, swinging at the referee rather than each other, struggled in barrels bearing pictures of "Boo! Hitler!"

The Spook Show, tunnels of cobwebs [confetti streamers] and masses of brains [spaghetti] and human eyes [peeled grapes] hung out the SRO sign. Scratching her head sagely, a seeress guessed the ages of the campers—a balloon prize if she missed it more than a year. Topper of all the sideshows was the ice cream stand with chocolate ice cream bars passing down the lines like hot cakes.

Camp Algonquin closes another summer next Monday. Maintained by the United Charities with the help of Tribune readers, the camp already is planning next summer's fun for underprivileged children and mothers. Romantic News Arrives from All Over Nation

BY JUDITH CASS.

NEWS of a romantic nature was received over the week-end from various parts of the country which will interest Chicago readers today. In New York announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Helena Van Cortlandt Hall, daughter of Mrs. Emmet Hall of High Valley, and of Bartow H. Hall of New York, to Ensign Hamlin Dunlap Smith, United States naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Dunlap Smith of Winnetka.

Miss Hall attended the Chapin and St. Timothy's schools and Bennington college, and was introduced to society in New York in 1940. Ensign Smith, a grandson of the late Mrs. John V. Farwell of Chicago and of the late Henry De Forest Baldwin of New York, is a graduate of the North Shore Country Day school in Winnetka, of which his father is headmaster. He also is a graduate of Harvard university, class of 1941.

Hobart Chatfield Taylor Engaged to Virginian.

And from Purcellville, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Moncure Nelson Lyon of Black Oak Ridge sent word of the engagement of their daughter, Mary Owen, to Hobart Chatfield Taylor, son of the undersecretary of commerce, Wayne Chatfield Taylor, and Mrs. Taylor of Washington, D. C., and Lake Forest. Miss Lyon was graduated from the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Noroton, Conn., and was introduced to society at the Bachelor's cotillion in Baltimore several seasons ago.

Mr. Taylor attended St. Mark's school and was graduated from Yale university, where he was a member of the Fence club. He now is in the United States Coast Guard reserve. The Taylors have two daughters, Adelaide, now Mrs. John Marshall Kernochan, and Rose, who is Mrs. Frank G. MacMurray. Both made Chicago debuts.

Women in War Work . . . .

By India Moffett

The University of Chicago institute of meteorology will begin training women to replace weather bureau men entering the fighting forces. Dr. Carl G. Rossby, director of the institute, announced that the first course would open Sept. 21, and applications for admission are being received. The training is under auspices of the Civil Aeronautics commission.

Women will receive compensation of $75 a month while in training. The course is nine months long. After completing it, women will enter the weather bureau as junior meteorologists at $2,000 a year.

Applicants may be 20 to 30 years of age, inclusive. They should be college graduates or college seniors, and must have had one year each of physics and calculus. In addition, they must possess a private pilot's certificate. The academic qualifications considerably reduce the field of possible applicants, but the need of a pilot's license narrows it still further. In order to give extra time to qualified women who lack flying training, there will be another course beginning in December. Announcement is made now to allow them time to learn to fly. Any one interested in entering the course now or preparing to enter it in December may call the university institute of meteorology or write there for further information.

The University of Chicago is one of five schools in the country offering this course. Dr. Rossby described the need for the training as follows: "Weather and weather forecasting are becoming more and more important in our daily lives because of their inseparability from military tactics on world-wide battle fronts. The Russian winter, the Aleutian fog, the Indian monsoon rains, and many other phenomena, emphasize the vital importance of weather. . . . Obviously these services [shipping, aviation, etc.] require trained meteorologists. The armed forces are absorbing more and more . . . meteorologists to handle military problems . . . and the need for women is becoming increasingly urgent." The training for women will be exactly the same as that given naval ensigns and army air cadets.

The membership list of the Service Men's Center Girls' organization is to be increased in preparation for the opening of the Auditorium hotel and theater as the city's fourth center operated by the Chicago commission on national defense. Applicants for membership with the SMC Girls should be 18 to 30 years of age. They should write for an interview with Miss Kay Nelson, director of the SMC Girls' organization, 176 West Washington street. Miss Nelson will interview from noon until 2 p. m. and from 3 to 7 p. m. Mondays thru Fridays and from 1 to 5 p. m. on Saturdays. When writing give name, address and most convenient time for interview. No other information need be included. And we repeat—write, do not telephone or call at the center without an appointment. The center already has 4,000 registered girl members, the largest volunteer organization of its kind in the country.

The first three floors of the Auditorium hotel are now being made ready for the new center, but the opening date is indefinite. What was once the hotel dining room and the bar are being thrown into one long room to make the biggest canteen in Chicago, probably in the country. The old bar was sold at the Auditorium auction for $167 to a buyer who wondered what he'd do with it. When the service center decided the famous old piece of furniture might just as well serve as a lunch counter, it found that the buyer had had it sawed into sections, hoping his "white elephant" might be resold to small taprooms.

The lobby will be a men's lounge and waiting room. There will be a lounge for women guests and a ballroom on the second floor, and the third floor will be given over to game rooms. There will be no alterations in the theater.

Guy Hardy, veteran business manager of the theater, was having a look-see when we visited the building recently. As he observed the floor outline of the old passageway to the theater [the wall has been removed] he said, "Thru this corridor passed the world." His inspection tour was lighted by bright rain from a torch cutting thru a support in the barroom, and his reminiscences came between crescendos of hammers and saws.

Jewish women's clubs of Chicago and Cook county have sold nearly two million dollars' worth of war bonds and stamps in the last two months, bringing their total sales since February to $4,047,926. The figures are from a report of Mrs. David Wodlinger, acting chairman of the Jewish committee, women's division, Chicago and Cook county war savings staff. The three organizations on this month's honor roll for sales in the group are: Chicago Sinai sisterhood with $180,485; Hadassah, $98,265, and Rodfei Zedek sisterhood, $54,010. The Jewish women's organizations plan to open a drive next month to pledge each member to buy a definite number of bonds every month. This is to help Illinois reach its monthly sales quota.

Barrington's Fete to Raise Money for New Air Raid Siren

Barrington wants to make sure that every one hears its air raid siren. The small siren in the village hall did its best during the Aug. 12 black-out, but its shriek petered out beyond a ¾ mile radius. Now the town has its mind set on a $1,500 noise maker of 7½ horse power that can be heard two miles away. To raise the necessary money the Lions club and American Legion will open a five night festival in North Cook street, between Railroad and Franklin avenues, tomorrow night. There will be a merry-go-round and Ferris wheels, game and refreshment booths, several programs and concerts. War bonds and stamps will be sold. Heading the managing committee is Martin Schreiber and Mayor Earl Hatje represents the village.

Food Expert Finds England Well Fed on Its War Rations

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Britain is keeping well on its wartime rations, according to Dr. Sydenstricker, American food expert, who has spent six months in this country searching for any ill effects of wartime food.

"I have visited Merthyr Tydvil [mining area in the South Wales coal field], Blackburn [Lancashire], miners' villages around Wakefield [Yorkshire], steel workers in the Birmingham area, East Enders in London, children in Essex—and, frankly, I came across practically no malnutrition," he says. "Apart from some old people, a number of children and cases of women who recently had babies, I found the country doing very well on wartime food. Of course, you can find some malnutrition among people who do not like milk or cheese and take only tea, toast, and jam. But even in these cases the toast is now wholesome bread and they must feel better for it."

SYNOPSIS.

INSTALMENT XIX.
PASS CLOSED.

Crumpaun fairly gaped at Rosemary.

"Do you tell me you've kept all this under your hat for the better part of a month?" And suddenly he broke into a great roar of laughter.

"You little card!" he cried, slapping his knee and shouting with mirth—"you doggoned little card!"

"Hush up, Mr. Crumpet—people are staring at you," Rosemary said repressively. [They were, indeed.] "I didn't see that there was any need to tell Daddy," she went on, a little defensively—"I thought I'd wait and see if anything else funny happened. But nothing did. And then this morning, when Hever and Crossman and you were all talking, it struck me that this might be one of the places where they come over, No. 17, or whoever it is."

"It may be the place," Crumpaun said, serious again now. "Look here, sweetheart, I want to see these photographs. Think I can get a set, like all these other guys?"

"You could see daddy's, anyhow—they're all in his album."

"Oke. Now tell me something else. Who is this bird you call the Parrot?"

"That's just what I don't know."

"And where do you say you saw him? Besides Jacques'?"

"At the Café de Paris. But ages ago. In fact, he hasn't seemed to be about for ages," said Rosemary, rather gloomily.

"Ar-rum. Well, it's no good asking about him at Jacques', obviously. But we might try George at the Paris—he's pretty smart," said Crumpaun hopefully. "Come along, sweetheart—we might as well breeze in there on the way home. I could do with a drink after all this—and you can get your nauseous fluid there, I don't doubt."

But George, the urbane, skillful barman at the Café de Paris, disclaimed all knowledge of an elderly Spaniard of distinguished appearance, who resembled a gray parrot.

"O, well, we'll find him somehow," Crumpaun said, as they walked thru the echoing casino arcades toward the hotel.

"It might be—very important. Or not. Can't tell yet," Crumpaun answered.

• • •

Later that evening, Rosemary asked her father, "Daddy, can I have your photo-book to show Mr. Crumpaun?"

"All right—but take care of it."

Rosemary bore away the book to show to Crumpaun in the lounge. It was dressing-time, and there was hardly any one about. Crumpaun examined the photos carefully along with a large-scale map which he had brought, asking Rosemary questions all the time.

At last he put his stubby finger on the map at a certain point.

"That looks like the place," he said. "Well, we'll go and see it."

"When shall we go?" Rosemary asked, her eyes shining.

"Tomorrow—if I can get what I want in time. Now, sweetheart, can you keep hold of that book and bring it along when we go?"

"I'll try," the girl said.

What Crumpaun wanted was a special permis de circulation near the frontier, over and above his usual press passes—and, thanks to his good relations with the French authorities, he got it within 24 hours. So not the following day, but the day after, he and Rosemary set off in the hired car, Crumpaun, armed with his map, Rosemary with her father's album, which she had purloined afresh for the purpose, wrapped in brown paper. They drove for some distance along the Sare road, but presently turned off to the right, and plunged into the network of little lanes and by-roads which cover the rolling country round the foot of La Rhune.

At length, after many wrong turnings, checks, and retreats in reverse down lanes too narrow for the car to pass further, they did in fact find themselves near the foot of a small round hill. Short of this they had met a couple of gardes mobiles in their belted black overcoats and neat gaiters, but Crumpaun's permit enabled the car to pass their stop-point on the minute road.

Rosemary was enjoying herself. The sleuthing instinct, strong in the Anglo-Saxon section of humanity, had got the upper hand in her, and she thought it all the greatest fun.

At last they reached the top, Rosemary prancing ahead, Mr. Crumpaun puffing and blowing behind her. From here they looked out across the tangled uneven green country toward the blue tangle of the hills, rising to La Rhune, whose top was swathed in white cloud. Into this tangle Rosemary peered, screwing up her eyes, while Mr. Crumpaun got his breath, pulled his binoculars out of their leather case and adjusted them. It was difficult at first for the girl, unaccustomed to map reading or to recognizing from below places seen from above, to make out where to look for her valley with little trees, but at last Rosemary squeaked that there it was, there it was!

Mr. Crumpaun focussed his Zeiss glasses on the spot, and then bade her take them and study it to make sure, while he took the album and looked again at the photographs. There was no doubt about it—away across the interfolding slopes of a long winding valley lay the little combe, trees and all; even the oddly shaped projecting rocks were visible thru the powerful lenses. Mr. Crumpaun then studied the valley. He made some notes in his pocket-book, replaced his binoculars, and they started down the hill again in triumph.

And then, when they were nearly back at the car, disaster happened. Rosemary, bounding ahead, made to leap the brimming ditch beside the road landing, she caught her foot in a root, stumbled and fell forward. The album flew out of her hand and landed in a puddle of muddy water. With a cry, she snatched the book out as soon as she had picked herself up; but in those few seconds the water had penetrated the wrapping, and the back of it and the two front pages were stained and soaking wet. They wiped them with handkerchiefs, and did all they could, but there was no disguising the fact that the album was spoiled.

"I'll tell him," Crumpaun volunteered.

"No—I'll tell him myself," said Rosemary. "But I can't think what he'll say."

Mr. Oldhead had, in fact, a great deal to say when the injured photograph album was shown to him. "I took it out with Crumpaun, to look at something, and like an utter owl I dropped it in a puddle," was all that Rosemary would say.

But Mr. Oldhead, parent-like, was determined to know why she had taken it, and at length applied to Mr. Crumpaun. Crumpaun, who did not in the least realize the strength of Mr. Oldhead's pro-Republican feelings was, of course, entirely ignorant of Rosemary's secret wish to avoid any publicity for fear of getting her beloved condesa into trouble, came out with the whole story of the photographs, the old Parrot, and the episode at the coiffeur's—a story which he felt was amusing in itself, and rather creditable to Rosemary.

But, Mr. Oldhead did not see it in that light at all. Parents dislike nothing more than that children should keep their own counsel, and in this case Rosemary had kept hers in a way that seemed to her father positively disloyal.

She had known that the photographer was selling prints from his negatives—and she had said nothing! Worse, when she had spoken it had been to a stranger, and not to him. He was hurt and indignant.

His wife tried to soothe him. "She loves keeping things to herself—she always did, from a tiny thing," she said. "It isn't any lack of affection for you. No, it isn't disloyal, and you ought not to say that it is—that's being silly."

But Mr. Oldhead was not to be soothed. Like Crumpaun, he was practically convinced that the academic Spaniard had wanted the photographs for spying purposes, and that he must be in some way connected with the Biarritz organization; and he bitterly regretted that he had never troubled to learn his name, or more about him. He made all the inquiries he could, without result—the Parrot had, as Rosemary said, gone to ground. But what maddened Henry Oldhead was that he should have been made the unconscious instrument of Franquistas. The sabotage stories had become public property by this time, and the thought that the Republicans might owe the loss of planes they so desperately needed to an agent armed with his photographs really tortured him. He took counsel with Crossman, who shared his Republican sympathies, and a couple of days later they went off together to the prefecture at Bayonne and put the whole case before the French authorities.

Mr. Oldhead was warmly thanked, and the photographs were sent to Bordeaux; the authorities acted promptly, and three days after a little English girl had dropped a photograph album into a puddle on a Basque by-road, a whole posse of extra police were guarding the stretch of frontier on which the small col lay. For whatever purpose that route might have been used, it would be used no more.

Enlist Hundreds of City Churches in Scrap Drive

Pastors of hundreds of churches yesterday reminded their parishioners of the "Salvage for Victory" drive which is being waged by the Office of Civilian Defense. William L. McFetridge, Chicago area salvage director, requested leaders of various faiths to seek coöperation in setting up salvage depots for each congregation so that proceeds would go to church funds.

Civilians! Share Girls with the USO

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The town was near a camp. A dance was held at the community house for the soldiers under the auspices of the USO. From a town of 1,000 persons, the hostesses in charge could only get four girls to come.

The girls were willing to do their bit to make things pleasant for the men in service. It was their boy friends who objected to their attending the dance.

Partners were obtained for the soldiers from neighboring villages. The dance was a success, yet it seems to me that those girls who refused to help entertain the army men must have felt a bit unpatriotic, and I should think the boys who kept them at home must have felt a bit ungenerous, too.

A uniform is attractive. There is something romantic about a chap who is going to risk his life in the service of his country. The young men still in civilian life may have had some cause for fear. Perhaps it would have been a risk to let their best girls be exposed to the glamor of a uniform, but it seems to me it was a risk they should have taken.

After all, they could court their girls every night in the week. Why should they begrudge the soldiers one evening of innocent fun? Since it was under the auspices of the USO, it was bound to be a well chaperoned, well conducted party. Each girl who attended probably laughed and danced with a dozen or more different soldiers. She couldn't have had much time to fall seriously in love.

The young men of the community surely could have trusted their girls to entertain the soldiers in a purely friendly and patriotic spirit. The girls themselves might have shown a little more independence.

Army of English Women to Renovate Clothing

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 23.—With the object of reducing purchases of new clothing to a minimum, the board of trade is mobilizing women darners, clothes turners, and home dressmakers into an army of clothing renovators. Classes are being organized all over Britain to train women as instructors to the clothes mending groups.

The board of trade wants the women to work in groups so that all tools and materials can be pooled to ensure economy in labor and supplies.

This one's a brand new booklet: "Perfect Homemade Pies," 5 cents, by mail. It's a collection of good plain pie recipes, for the most part, the pies that aren't contained in our department's other booklet, "27 Choice Chiffon Pies," also 5 cents.

Plain fruit pies, cream pies, custard, pumpkin, are examples of the contents of "Perfect Homemade Pies." There are recipes for plain and hot water pastry too. The two pie booklets provide all the good recipes for pies and crusts which almost any cook could want, and they'll be mailed upon receipt of 10 cents in stamps to any one who wants them. Mail requests should be addressed to Mary Meade, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

This one's a completely revised version of an older booklet of ours: "Make It with Honey." It's filled with sugar saving recipes of all kinds, and sells for 7 cents, by mail.

A third booklet is almost ready. It is one which readers have long been clamoring for, a collection of prize recipes. It will be a fat, printed book, not a mimeographed one, which is the reason for its being a little tardy in appearing before the public. I'll announce it thru this column the day before the book is ready. It's going to be a prize winner in itself, so full of excellent, thoroly tested recipes!

"Favorite Pickles and Relishes," 5 cents by mail, is a booklet which sells like ice cream cones this time of year. It contains the finest recipes we could find for all kinds of pickles, fruit and vegetable varieties. Dills, sweet pickles, sour pickles, mustard pickles, piccalilli, chili sauce, watermelon, cantaloupe, crabapple pickles, pepper relish are the names of some of the pickles included in the book.

This is the season for greens, spinach, turnip tops, beet greens, chard, mustard greens. Cook them until they're barely tender, in just a little water, unless you're following an old-time recipe such as this one for turnip greens and pot licker, Georgia style. I'd suggest shortening the cooking time for the greens from 1 hour, as originally called for in the recipe, to "the shortest time possible."

Turnip Greens and Pot Licker.

[A Georgia Recipe.]

Salt, pepper.

Simmer salt pork and water for 45 minutes. Add clean greens and cook until tender. Drain, chop them, and serve in a hot dish with the meat sliced on top and about 1½ cups of the liquid in which they were boiled poured over them. Serve with corn pone or corn meal muffins. Any fresh greens may be substituted.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Makeup Must Change with the Seasons

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Are you a one-makeup woman? Do you use the same powder, lipstick, and rouge year after year? Do you make up in fall and winter with summer's outdoor tones? Do you put on the same cosmetic shades in the evening that you have worn all day?

If so, you are cosmetically lazy. You are not doing justice to your face. You are making your date frock less becoming. Your appearance isn't as beautiful as it easily could be.

The skin changes in color and texture with the years. The woman who keeps up with her beauty will match her cosmetics accordingly. Fashions change, too. Older women will remember the marshmallow nose and vivid cheeks in style a number of years ago. Today we use beauty aids to get a more natural, realistic effect. Yet some women still make their cheeks garish with a too vivid hue of rouge. It is up to date to use lipstick only. Any rouge on the cheeks should be used so delicately that it looks like nature's bloom.

The seasons should make a difference in your choice of cosmetics. The shade of powder that matches a suntan does not enhance the paler complexion of the fall. Bright orange lips are all right against a glowing, brown skin. An orange tint will make the wearer look sickly in the coming autumn.

Every woman should have a daytime and evening makeup kit. Artificial lights require a lighter shade of powder. The lipstick and rouge can be brighter. An artist in makeup will blend lipstick and powder to harmonize with the colors of her costume.

A woman who is faithful to her true beauty will vary her makeup with the time of day, the seasons, and the requirements of her skin.

Club Makes Dressings.

Thru the Looking Glass

It's odd the way fashions in makeup change. Right now it's the fashion not to look made up at all, to be so artful in the application of powder and rouge and lipstick that the innocent bystander won't dream the complexion came out of jars and boxes. The glamor girl with a mouth line obviously not her own, and eyes heavy lidded with shadow, is as out of style as a Eugenie hat.

The effect we strive for now is the alert, scrubbed, fresh look. Masklike makeups don't achieve it. Soap and water do, and daily hair brushing, and the careful use of freshening lotions after creams. This last is very important.

Oil won't ooze back after an hour or so, and the immediate effect of makeup will be ever so much crisper if you use a toning lotion to complete the removal of your creams. Such things aren't necessarily drying, you know. One of the best we know of is an herbal lotion, with no drying effects at all but with great efficiency in cutting the last vestiges of cream and giving the skin the clean, faintly radiant look you like. It's mildly astringent, and our favorite use of it is after cleansing, for a brisk slapping and patting that whips up circulation slightly and at the same time removes the oily traces of lubrication.

You'll find this helpful in keeping your skin nicely toned, and in keeping it fresh looking. Also, if you keep the lotion in the ice box, you can work it into a wonderful pickup treatment when you're tired. Cream, then the chilled lotion slapped on briskly, and the tired look will vanish.

Romantic News Arrives from All Over Nation

Thru a mutual friend, also in the army, they started a correspondence that continued for several months until they met last spring when Lieut. Pynchon was on leave. At that time he and Miss Cook came to Chicago to visit his father and Mrs. Pynchon.

Miss Cook is a graduate of Vassar and has traveled extensively abroad, having completed a course at the University of Heidelberg shortly before the outbreak of war. She is a past president of the Tennessee Division of the Children of the Confederacy and was a maid of honor on the staff of Adjt. Gen. B. C. Mathis at the Confederate Reunion held recently in Washington, D. C. Lieut. Pynchon attended the Boys' Latin school and the University of California. He was active in mining operations in Mexico and later was an agricultural consultant in New York state.

Norma Hauser Engaged to Ensign R. W. Condee.

At a small tea at home in Evanston yesterday Mr. and Mrs. William T. Faricy announced the engagement of their daughter, Norma Hauser, to Ensign Ralph Waterbury Condee, U. S. naval reserve, son of Mrs. Ralph Condee of Chicago. Miss Faricy attended the Roycemore school and was graduated from Vassar in June. Ensign Condee is a graduate of the University of Illinois and received his masters's degree at the University of Chicago in 1939. He is grandson of the late Judge Elbridge Hanecy.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brandly Converse of Hinsdale are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Marion Grace, to Ensign James Douglas Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Roy Johnson of Eastlake terrace. The wedding will take place next month. Miss Converse is a graduate of Stephens college and of Northwestern university, from which her fiancé received his master's degree after having been graduated from Westminster college.

At a dinner at home in Hammond, Ind., last night, Dr. and Mrs. Eli Sherman Jones announced the engagement of their daughter, Janet, to Ensign Theodore Baldwin Pitman Jr., son of Mr. Pitman and the late Doris Bliss Pitman of Brookline, Mass. Ensign Pitman came west for the announcement party. The wedding will take place at the time of his next leave.

Miss Jones attended the University of Chicago High school and was graduated from Miss Porter's school at Farmington, Conn., and attended Rollins college. Ensign Pitman also attended Rollins, having prepared at the Noble and Greenough school in Dedham, Mass.

Helena Jane Clay to Be Bride of Army Officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Wharton Clay, formerly of Winnetka and Evanston, have sent word from Nyack, N. Y., their present home, that their daughter, Helena Jane, is to be married shortly to Lieut. David Haggard Humphrey, U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Humphrey of Washington, D. C., also former Chicagoans. Miss Clay attended school in Winnetka and the College of Wooster. Lieut. Humphrey is a graduate of the University of Chicago.

For the first time the Dunham Woods Riding club's horse show is a local show member of the American Horse Show association, the committee in charge is pleased to announce. The show will be held on Sept. 13 in Wayne for the benefit of the Army Emergency relief.

Two army classes are scheduled for the day-long affair. One of them is a remount class for mares and geldings that would be suitable for acceptance as cavalry horses. There also will be a handy hunter class over a Paul Brown course, a cross-country hack course which will include the opening and closing of gates and remounting, and a utility driving class for any sort of horse drawn vehicle, a class that proved especially popular at the recent Oak Brook show. There will not be a horse show ball this year.

Lieut. Raymond Otis Mitchell, who has been a leading figure in hunting and riding circles in Wayne, will miss the show, as he is in the east for further training in the navy. Mrs. Mitchell and young Barbara and Jimmy left on Saturday to join him.

Passavant Hospital Group to Entertain Debutantes

Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mrs. George Corson Ellis, Mrs. John Dern, Mrs. Gerald Hollins, Mrs. Edward Byron Smith, and Mrs. Paul Rowan will be hostesses at 4 o'clock this afternoon at a tea which the Passavant hospital benefit board will give at Jacques restaurant. Guests will be the 65 debutantes who will sell programs on Sept. 14, when the board sponsors a performance of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus. Tickets are selling well for the circus benefit, which will aid Passavant hospital.

The International Star Boat world championships will start today at the Columbia Yacht club. Sailors from all parts of the United States are competing in the events, using Chicago boats for which visitors and local sailors alike draw lots each day. The Jackson Park Yacht club is giving a dinner for the participants tomorrow night.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is always cause for suspicion when a good player, on defense, gives declarer the opportunity to take a finesse which, because of lack of entries, he cannot take on his own account. Note today's deal:

East-West vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ Q J 9 7 3 2
♥ 9 2
♦ 7 4 2
♣ 5 2

WEST
♥ Q
♦ J 10 9 8 6

EAST
♠ A K
♥ 8 7 6 5 4
♦ A 5 3
♣ Q 8 7

SOUTH
♠ 6 4
♥ A K J 10 3
♦ K Q
♣ A K J 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 hearts	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

North should have persisted to four spades, not because his hand was good, but because it was so bad that only at a spade contract could he be sure of contributing some tricks to the common cause.

Against the actual three no trump contract, West opened the diamond jack and East won with the ace. Now 99 out of every 100 players in the East position would return a diamond and sit back with an air of rectitude. Not this East, however! He had listened carefully to the bidding, and certain facts were all too plain to him. The primary fact was that South had at least a five card heart suit, hence West held no more than one heart. If East forced declarer to win a diamond return in his own hand, the entryless condition of dummy meant that declarer would be forced to lead hearts from his own hand, which also meant that he would automatically capture any honor card West happened to hold. Not only that but, far worse, dummy's heart nine would thereupon become an entry, and what was more likely [again considering the bidding] than that South had A K J of clubs and would welcome the opportunity to finesse against the club queen?

East met these dangers boldly and effectively: He returned a low heart! And declarer, to his shame, fell squarely into the trap! Overjoyed at the chance to finesse for the heart queen and, perhaps, land in dummy, via the heart nine, for another finesse in hearts or clubs, he played the heart three on the second trick. From that point on he "never saw daylight."

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Wow!

She was a new girl and her inexperience was matched only by her breezy enthusiasm. The second day, left alone in the office, she had occasion to make a memorandum that a man had called in her boss' absence. She filled out the printed form customarily used in the office. When she came to a blank space headed "Remarks," she really went to town about the tall, dark, and handsome stranger who had dropped in. "WOW!" she wrote.

Small Business Saga.

"Your article regarding the restaurant business awakened something inside me and I had to write you," begins a letter from E. J. "For the last 15 years I have been a white collar girl starting with two years high school commercial training. My first position was filing until I got up enough courage to tell my boss I could typewrite and take dictation. From then on, with perseverance, sincerity, tears, and headaches, I went from $14 a week to $50 a week. I have often thought it would be a pleasure to talk to a group of young girls starting on their business careers and tell them why some girls get ahead and others don't. First of all, I found that using your 'noodle' [my last employer's favorite expression] was the most important thing, next being personality and disposition. Then, too, appearance, and with cosmetic helps today there is no excuse for homeliness.

"Getting back to the restaurant business: I had given up my position to stay home and enjoy some leisure, but after seven months my husband and I got the restaurant bug—a nice attractive eating place, and nothing else would do until we got one. It is just two years since we started. Sixteen hours a day, trying to be a diplomat in the kitchen, combination dishwasher and cook at times, hostess and assistant waitress—yet ever smiling! [This is written during a lull on Sunday afternoon.]

"It was all so difficult even tho we both had business training, but our bills are paid and there's money in the bank . . . and you can't sell us beef for pork any more!

"Instead of a white collar I now wear white uniforms—my husband wears the white collar and does all the bookkeeping and banking. But, as you mentioned, most places are for sale after a year or two, because like us, the folks are tired and lonesome. They have no chance to be themselves without an audience. We would like to have time to be in the country and see the sunset—we have a cottage for that lucky day."

Woman's I. Q.

In handing down a decision in the Florida Supreme court, Justice Glen Terrell said recently: "The fact that woman has an I. Q. rating the equivalent of man is no longer an open question. She has entered the trades, crafts, business, professions, and has demonstrated marked skill in all of them except where mere physical prowess is the deciding factor."

On the House

One frequent query these days: "What type paint can we use on our radiators to put them in shape for the coming fall?" . . . Regular paint may be used, but better still a paint manufactured and labeled as appropriate for radiator coverage. . . . Flat finishes are preferred, but semigloss may be employed if desired. . . . Radiators should harmonize with room colors and trim, and it is wise to select a color that is a little lighter than you wish, since heat has a tendency to darken the shade slightly. . . . And if your radiators are now covered with bronze or aluminum paint you can save on next year's fuel bill by repainting with a flat paint.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Bob Moser of Texas A. and M. threw a thirty-five yard pass to Mal Kutner, University of Texas end, to salvage a 7 to 7 tie for the Reds in their battle with the Blues as the All-Stars played their final training game yesterday morning in Dyche stadium. The score came with less than five minutes remaining in the fourth quarter. Coupled with this full length game was a 30 minute contest in which the Blues' second varsity defeated a second team of Reds, 14 to 0.

The three hours' competition on Dyche stadium gridiron—the only practice session of the day—climaxed the All-Stars' preparation for their battle with the Chicago Bears in Soldiers' field Friday night in the ninth annual game sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. From now on the All-Stars will be in uniform once each day as Head Coach Bob Zuppke and his assistants taper the program toward peak performance Friday night before a record throng of 101,000. A major point in the final preparations will be a secret practice Wednesday night under the Soldiers' field lights.

Reds Out for Revenge.

Yesterday's game had many mechanical mistakes, both teams fumbling far too many times, but the errors frequently were caused by hard, vicious tackling rather than sloppy ball handling. The chips were down, for the Reds were determined to avenge three successive defeats. They dominated the first half of the game, but failed to score. Then, after the Blues had punched over their touchdowns, the Reds rallied on the perfect collaboration of the two Texans.

The final drive for the tie was started by Moser, who threw to Bob Robertson, Southern California half back, near the east sideline. Robertson was loitering near the restraining line after the kickoff without being detected by the Blues' secondary. This pass carried the ball forty yards to the Blues' 39 yard line. From this point Moser lofted another high pass that dropped into Kutner's hands as the Texas end ran at full speed two strides from the end zone. Moser followed up with a placement for the tying point.

Four Players Are Hurt.

The final game was costly. Four men were injured. The last of the quartet to leave the field was Bill

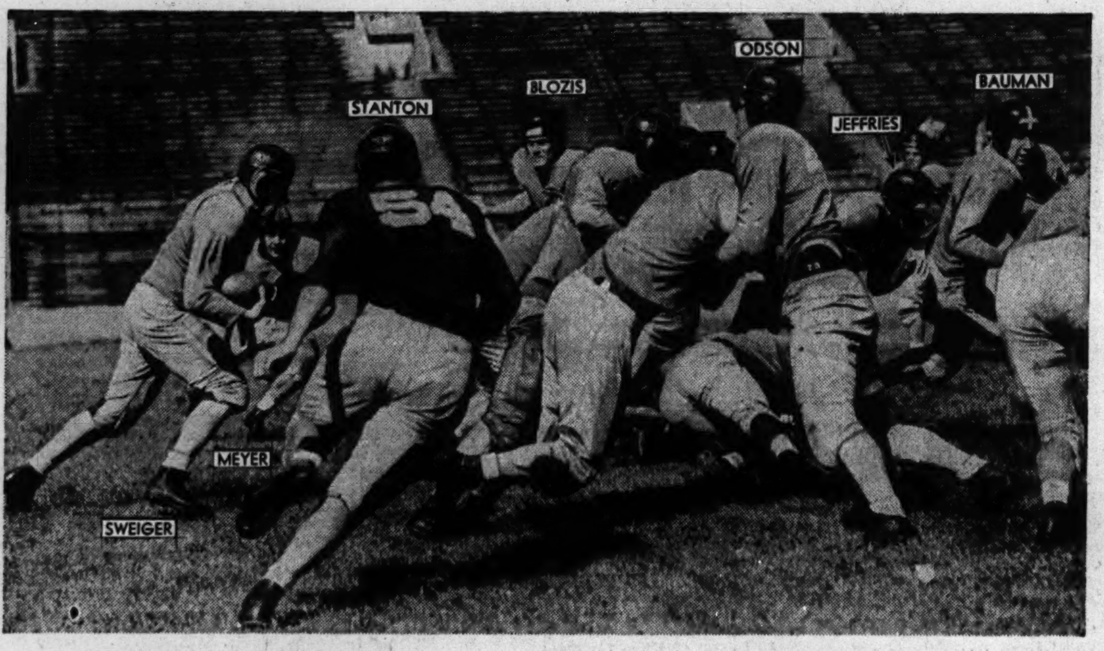
It's All in Fun, but You'd Never Know It



This was only a practice game as the All-Stars took their final full length scrimmage for their meeting with the Bears Friday night, but you could never tell it by the way Bob Sweiger of Minnesota cracks that line. Sweiger furnished a lot of the heavy work with the ball as his Red squad tied with the Blues, 7 to 7, in the intrasquad game yesterday in Dyche stadium. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Babe Ruth Hits 2 'Homers' for Service Relief Crowd

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Babe Ruth, who built the Yankee stadium, came back today to fill it with fans—and gold—for Uncle Sam's soldiers and sailors.

Naturally, the big guy, hitting two homers off Walter Johnson as the top attraction on the card, had a lot of help bringing 69,136 fans into the park to contribute an estimated $80,000 to army and navy relief.

Babe Is Still Head Man.

But all you had to do was hear the folks holler for Ruth to realize that the lure his big bat has always had for the fans still works, and that he was the drum major in the parade that included a showing of what is left of the 55 year old Johnson's smoke ball, a double header between the Yanks and Washington Senators, and a hitting-running-throwing field meet between players of both clubs.

After the Senators had come on with a ninth inning three run rally to take the first game, 7 to 6, Ruth and Johnson strolled out to show the crowd how a couple of the greatest greats did it. Benny Bengough, the little bald headed man who used to catch for the Yanks in the Babe's heydey, was on the receiving end of the Big Train's slants, and Billy Evans, also turning back the clock, called balls and strikes.

Babe Runs Bases, Too.

Seventeen times Johnson pitched with that machine-smooth motion of his. Seven were balls. Three were called strikes. But two had the old Ruth trademark on them—right among the customers in the right field grandstand. And with the last one—which was slightly foul—the Babe gave it the old Ruthian flourish, circling the bases and acknowledging the roof-shaking roars with his traditional hat wave. Then he hugged Johnson and they both strolled into the dugout.

Fans Not Satisfied.

Still the fans wanted more. While the fungo hitting contest was going on, they chanted "we want Ruth; we want the Babe," and they kept it up until the public address system advised one and all that "Mr. Ruth is taking a shower right now and can't come out."

The fungo hitting test went to Yankee Pitcher Red Branch with a 376-foot poke; the 60 yard dash was an easy affair for Senator Outfielder George Case; the catcher's accuracy throwing competition was grabbed by Al Evans, and Case helped Washington down a Yankee quartet in a relay around the bases. All winners received bonds as prizes.

Yanks and Senators Divide.

The Yanks and Senators broke even in their twin bill. After the Senators came from behind to take the opener, the Yanks piled up a quick lead on Buck Newsom in the second game and won out, 3 to 0, when the umpires called the game at the 5½ inning mark because of darkness, with Tiny Bonham chalking up his 16th victory of the season.

WORLD'S STAR SAILING REGATTA STARTS TODAY

The 19th annual Star class world's sailing regatta will start today off Randolph street with 19 crews competing. The Chicago, Jackson Park, Sheridan Shore, and Columbia Yacht clubs are sponsoring the event.

The 1941 champion Star yacht skipper, George Fleitz of Los Angeles will not be here. Harry Nye Jr., Chicago Yacht club skipper representing the Southern Lake Michigan fleet, who was a close second to Fleitz last year on the Pacific coast, will represent the Chicago, Columbia, and Jackson Park clubs' Star fleets. Emerson Raymond, challenging for the international title for the first time, will represent the Sheridan Shore club.

Contenders Qualify at Home.

Every contender for the international title has won the right to challenge by winning a series of elimination races on his home waters. Skipper Nye has won every elimination contest held by the Southern Lake Michigan fleet since 1936, entering every world championship since then, except in 1939.

Among coastal yachtsmen expected to give Nye close competition are George Elder, Charles De Cardenas, and Paul H. Smart. De Cardenas, captain of the Havana, Cuba, fleet, has been in the Star internationals for 13 years. He has tried for the Cup of Cuba for 17 years and only last February won it from Harry Nye. His son, Carlos, 10 years old, will be his crew this week.

Corry Reëlected Commodore.

George A. [Pop] Corry was reelected commodore of the International Star Class Yacht Racing association last night at the annual meeting of the organization, held at the Columbia Yacht club. Commodore Corry, 80 year old skipper of the first Star boat, which he still races on Long Island Sound, is a member of the Manhassett Bay [N.Y.] Yacht club. Charles Pajeau, a Chicago yachtsman, was elected a rear commodore.

A race will be sailed every day this week except Thursday, traditionally a rest day for skippers and crews in the series. All races start off Chicago harbor at 1:30 p. m.

LYONS DEFEATS INDIANS, 3 TO 1; WADE LOSES, 1-0

Three Runs in Ninth Win for Ted and Sox.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 23.—The White Sox paid homage to their 41 year old Uncle Ted Lyons by bursting forth with a decisive ninth inning this afternoon, but came a cropper in an effort to do the same for Whistling Jake Wade in the second portion of a double header. An impending 1 to 0 trimming for Uncle Ted was turned into a 3 to 1 victory, his 11th of the year. Then Lefty Wade became embroiled in an argument with Jim Bagby and the latter took the decision when his Indian mates clubbed in a 10th inning run for a 1 to 0 success.

Hoag and Appling Come Thru.

Uncle Ted's bid for his 256th decision in the American league almost proved a failure because of a slight mistake by Mike Tresh. He let one of Lyons' pitches escape in the sixth while the producer of the third, also last, Indian hit was lurking on the bases. A bargain run was quickly registered and this seemed ample in view of the weak tapping the Sox were doing against Al Smith's southpawing. But Myril Hoag came thru with a single and Luke Appling with a two bagger in the ninth to turn the show inside out.

Altho Wade waded thru nine innings of the second affair without permitting the Indians to find the plate, it wasn't because of a paucity of enemy hits. The slat-like lefty enjoyed only one perfect inning of the first nine, but always had a ready solution of all difficulties. That is, until the 10th, when he met up with Ken Keltner.

Keltner a Trouble Maker.

Keltner wasn't able to get profitable mileage out of a double in the first inning. He doubled again in the sixth, this time with none out, and again abandoned his travels before reaching the plate.

The 10th opened with a harmless fly off Manager Lou Boudreau's bat and the next incident was a flukey bounder of which Oris Hockett was the author. It was too high for Wade to reach and altho Appling grabbed it back of second, there wasn't time for a throw. This brought back Keltner. He drilled his third two bagger into the open space in left center and Hockett sprinted home with the finishing touch.

FIRST GAME

The Sox started the first game as if they had found a cousin in Al Smith. A liner off Kolloway's bat was flagged by Heath, after which Moses and Hoag dispatched singles. Appling whipped a low liner into left center and everybody, including Moses figured it was a sure hit. But Weatherly

PASSEAU WINS 17TH; WARNEKE YIELDS TWO HITS

Lon Walks None in Second Contest.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Claude Passeau delighted a crowd of 32,136 in Wrigley field yesterday afternoon by shutting out the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 0, in the first game of a double header. Then by way of keeping the 30,936 paying customers and 1,200 service men happy, Lon Warneke pitched a two-hit, no walk, no error sparkler, as the Cubs swept the four game series by taking the second game, also by a 3 to 0 score. Only 27 batsmen, the irreducible minimum, faced Lon, and not a man was left on base.

Tho Passeau yielded nine hits, only one of the 1940 world champs got as far as third base. Against Warneke not a Red got to third, and only one, Frank McCormick, who doubled in the second inning, reached second. McCormick was thrown out trying to go to third on Gee Walker's grounder after his double, and Walker was caught stealing. The other hit off Lon was a single by Lonnie Frey. Then Bert Haas hit into a double play and Max Marshall bounced out. It was just too soft for Lon the rest of the way, in view of the kind of dashing support he got in the rare needed instances.

Lon Warneke.

Claude Passeau.

17th Victory for Passeau.

Passeau, who saw a 4 to 0 lead dissolved to a 4 to 4 tie after two were out in the ninth the last prior time he faced the Reds in Cincinnati two weeks ago, had the pleasure of registering his 17th victory as he teased the Reds with those nine futile hits. Warneke's victory was his ninth of the year, and came within a week of the anniversary of his no-hitter against the Reds last Aug. 30.

The Cubs ripped into Bucky Walters in the first inning of the first game, making three runs with some sound hitting and a bit of unsteadiness in the Red defense. The Chicagoans made the first run, the winning run, before the erring began, on a double by Phil Cavarretta and a single by Bill Nicholson. After the first inning the winners made only five hits off Walters, and one of these was an interference award in the final inning. The Cubs left only two runners on base.

Fourth for Claude Over Reds.

It was Passeau's fourth victory over the Reds in five decisions this year. He was not the pitcher of record in his last Cincinnati appearance.

Visitors Are Chilled Off.

The Reds threatened in the fourth, fifth and sixth but nice bearing down chilled off the visitors. In the fourth

DUPONT MEETS TEANEY TONIGHT IN MARIGOLD RING

Joe Given Chance to Score an Upset.

Harry Teaney, Cleveland boxer, who gained recognition as a topnotch lightweight last Dec. 28 by upsetting Eddie Lander in Marigold Gardens, tonight will return to Marigold arena as a trial horse in an eight round bout against Joe Dupont of South Chicago.

Teaney followed up the conquest of Lander with a fifth round technical knockout over Marcellino Borrado, a decision over Nick Castiglione, and a draw fight with Tony Motisi. These contests also were held in Chicago. In his last appearance in this city Harry was defeated by Motisi in a rematch in the Stadium.

Dupont Has Chance for Upset.

Despite Teaney's impressive record, Dupont must be given a chance to score an upset on the strength of his recent fights. After losing to Bill Parsons on a first round knockout, Joe came back to beat Parsons in an encore. He also conquered Eddie Carson, and stopped Alvin Gomez and Ramey McKnight to link a chain of four straight victories.

Lou Woods, Detroit 150 pounder, will make his third Chicago start against Gib Jones of Cincinnati in an eight round secondary feature. Woods defeated Mike Sopko and scored a technical knockout over Johnny Como in earlier encounters. A third contest of eight rounds will involve Johnny Johnson, south side middleweight, and Barney Garens, newcomer, also from Cincinnati. Como has won his four professional fights, his victims being Horace Gresham, Luther Brent, Tito Taylor, and Jesse Jackson.

Thomas Meets Gordon.

Red All-Star Eleven Ties Blues on Pass

Dudley, who suffered a broken little finger on his left hand when he was tackled on a sweeping end run. Since Dudley passes right handed his misfortune probably will not prevent him from playing against the Bears. Others on yesterday's casualty list are Dick Erdlitz, Northwestern's quarter back, who suffered a severely twisted ankle; Steve Lach of Duke and Vic Lindskog of Stanford. Lach's nose was broken and Lindskog received a cut on the chin that required two stitches to close.

The Blues' touchdown was scored by Fred Meyer, Stanford end, who took a short pass from Bruce Smith of Minnesota with the ball on the Reds' 4 yard line. Recovery of a Red fumble inside the 30 yard stripe provided the opening for the score. Bob Westfall of Michigan proved the most important player in a back field which included Bob Hargrave, Notre Dame quarter back; Pete Kmetovic, Stanford half back, and Smith as the Blues set up the final play.

Previously in the third quarter the Reds had made their most serious bid in a march founded on the running and passing of Jack Jacobs, the Creek Indian from the University of Oklahoma. On this occasion the Blues' line, anchored by Urban Odson of Minnesota, and Clarence Herndon of Nebraska, at the tackles, held for downs on the 4 yard line.

Score Twice in First Quarter.

The No. 2 Blue team got both its touchdowns against the Reds' second varsity in the first quarter of the 30 minute game. Moser threw a touchdown pass for the first that apparently sharpened his eye for his relief rôle that was to come later. The starting lineups of this game follow:

BLUES [14].		REDS [0].
Ebli [N. D.]	L. E.	Keating [Detroit]
Daniell [O. State]	L. T.	Walker [Iowa]
Maddock [N. D.]	L. G.	Robesky [Stanf'd]
Gude [Vanderbilt]	C.	Diehl [Iowa]
Pukema [Minn.]	R. G.	Sartori [Fordh'm]
Stephenson [Ohio State]	R. T.	Eason [Okla.]
Kutner [Tex.]	R. E.	Rokisky [Duq'ne]
Cheatham [Ala. Poly]	Q. B.	Astroth [Ill.]
Moser [Tex. A&M]	L. H.	Fisher [Ohio State]
Ice [Mo.]	R. H.	Deth'n [Ore. State]
Graf [Ohio State]	F. B.	Renzel [Marq'te]

Touchdowns—Ebli, Graf.
Points after touchdowns—Moser [2].

Moser's first down pass to Ray Ebli, Notre Dame end, from the Reds' 18 yard line, provided the first score of this game. Ebli carried the ball five yards after making the catch while running parallel to the scrimmage line. Moser place kicked the point. A few minutes after the subsequent kickoff, with the Reds deep in their territory, Ebli crashed thru to block Dick Fisher's punt and recover on the 13 yard line.

Graf Plunges for Score.

On the first play Harry Ice of Missouri cut thru right tackle for eleven yards and a first down. Jack Graf, Ohio State full back, then plunged for the score and Moser completed the action with another placement.

It still is possible to buy tickets for the game. Several sections of the $1.10 seats are not completely sold. These tickets may be purchased at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. A complete sellout will provide a donation of $160,000 to the army and navy relief funds, the largest sum to be obtained for these organizations from any sports event.

Washington Park Police Officer Dies Suddenly

Motisi, Here I Am!

ROBINSON MAY GET ZALE AFTER MOTISI CLASH

BY FRANK MASTRO.

"Boy, are they sore at us in New York for insisting on going thru with the fight in Chicago!"

That was the first statement made by George Gainford, trainer and comanager with Curt Horrmann of Ray Robinson, current New York welterweight sensation, when he alighted from the Lake Shore Limited at La Salle street station yesterday. Robinson will meet Tony Motisi in a 10 round bout in Comiskey park Wednesday night.

By "they," Big George apparently referred to Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, who thought he had exclusive rights to Robinson's services until Ray signed to appear against Motisi under the auspices of William R. Rand.

Robinson Concurs.

Robinson concurred by shaking his head and flashing a double row of ivory white teeth in a wide grin.

Big George said that if Robinson appears to advantage against Motisi, he will challenge Tony Zale, world middleweight title holder.

In addition to Robinson and Gainford, the party from the east included Dickie Cramer, a lightweight stablemate; Clyde Brewer, an assistant trainer, and Al Linton, Ray's private secretary.

After registering at the Grand hotel on the south side, Robinson and his entourage headed for Trafton's gymnasium in the loop where Ray sparred two rounds. He demonstrated those 123 straight matches he has won [89 as an amateur] were not accidents.

To Work Out Today.

Robinson, who is 22 years old, will engage in his final workout this afternoon. He is in tip-top form since only last Friday he scored a two round knockout over Reuben Shank, who previously had conquered Henry Armstrong.

Manager-Trainer Gainford indicated he may have broken relations with Jacobs because of Mike's inability to force Freddy [Red] Cochrane to defend his 147 pound title against his protége. Jacobs had planned to offer the encounter in Madison Square Garden on Sept. 10, but Cochrane refused to risk his belt for less than $50,000.

"We didn't want to buy the title," Gainford said. "All Ray wants to do is win it in the ring."

Bears Reach Mental Phase of Training

BY EDWARD PRELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Delafield, Wis., Aug. 23.—The third phase of the Chicago Bears' preparation for Friday night's struggle with the College All-Stars started today.

This new trend was no better emphasized than by Full Back Bill Osmanski, who with a group of Bears after Sunday dinner of roast beef and corn on the cob, said:

"We're all impressed by the All-Stars and I think they're the best since I've been following the game. From what we hear, it's a real battle in Evanston for positions with no prima donna All-Americans around to muddle up things." Part of this third phase is to get the players mentally keyed for the Soldiers' field spectacle. The first week they were given ground work in the complicated system that is the modern T formation man-in-motion and then came the application of what they had learned, climaxed with yesterday's 32 to 6 victory over Camp Grant.

Polish Bears' Offense.

In addition to the psychological stuff is the responsibility of polishing the Bears' offensive to the nth degree and there also will be a few hours allotted Hunk Anderson, line coach, that he may coördinate the forwards for a stout defense.

"We did just about as we figured to," was Coach George Halas' comment on the triumph at Camp Grant. "Of course, we made lots of mistakes, which will have to be corrected. On the bright side, I was impressed by Charley O'Rourke's success in driving the boys to a score the first time he got into the game. Connie Mack Berry looked very good at end and this big string bean [Clint Wager, rookie end from St. Mary's in Minnesota] perhaps was the big surprise among the new men.

"I would say that we were at least 47 per cent efficient. All we have to do between now and Friday night is to increase this efficiency reading to a cool 90, and goodness knows, this might not be high enough to beat the All-Stars."

Not Overconfident.

The coaches all agree that the All-Americans are a dangerous foe. One of them said, unofficially, that the Bears will be lucky to win by a touchdown. This wasn't part of the double talk that goes on in football camps when the coaches usually mean the opposite of what they say. The fellow was serious.

Halas today started his star-chamber strategy meetings. This one was at 5 o'clock. Included in the conference were Halas, Assistant Coaches Luke Johnsos, Paddy Driscoll, and Anderson, and Clark Shaughnessy, the new University of Maryland coach.

PARK RIDGE WINS OVER WOODLAND POLO TEAM, 8-6

Park Ridge knocked Woodland out of the Tri-State invitational polo tournament, 8 to 6, yesterday at River road and Devon avenue. A flurry of four goals in the second period, with Del Townsend scoring twice and George Biddle and Lieut. Gene Bauer getting a goal apiece for Park Ridge, proved too much for Woodland.

DODGERS RALLY TWICE TO BEAT GIANTS, 6-4, 7-5

Camilli Hits Homer with Bases Full.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 23 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers took another long stride in their drive toward their second consecutive National league pennant today by capturing a double header from the New York Giants, 6 to 4, in 10 innings, and 7 to 5 in half that distance before a crowd of 32,886. Spectacular rallies in the final innings provided the Dodgers with both victory margins, giving them a sweep of the four game series.

Cardinal Series Is Next.

Immediately after the second game the Dodgers entrained for St. Louis to open a four game series tomorrow night with the second place Cardinals, who now are seven and a half lengths behind the pace setters. Larry French will pitch the series opener for the Dodgers and may be opposed by Max Lanier.

Dolph Camilli took charge of the Brooklyn offense in the opener, driving in all six runs and winning the game with a four run homer in the last of the tenth.

Ott Hits 24th Homer.

Kirby Higbe went the distance for the Dodgers and yielded only six hits, but one of them was Mel Ott's 23d home run with a mate on base in the sixth. In the 10th Johnny Mize blasted a two run homer for the Giants, his 21st four bagger of the year.

Ott cracked his 24th homer in the second game, limited to five innings by darkness.

Red Sox Shut Out Athletics in Two Games

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 23 (AP).—Fine pitching performances by Cecil [Tex] Hughson and Joe Dobson enabled the Boston Red Sox to sweep a double header with the Athletics in their Army-Navy relief fund program today, 2 to 0 and 7 to 0.

A crowd of 26,514 witnessed a display of America's military might between games, staged by the mechanized Troop A of the 104th cavalry stationed here. It included a display of armored scout cars with two-way radios, jeeps, peeps and motorcycles.

Gate receipts were estimated at $30,000, altho Athletic officials said the exact amount would not be known for several days.

Ted Is Fans' Target.

Ted Williams, American league batting champion, went hitless against Phil Marchildon in the second game and the bleacher fans rode him to the point of Ted talking back to them. It culminated in Williams being the target for fruit, newspapers and score cards in the last of the fifth. Finally a detail of police was sent to the bleachers. Pete Fox replaced Williams in the ninth. Score:

Shoots Double Eagle, Eagle on Successive Holes

Harold E. Reid, playing with a foursome at Briargate course in Deerfield yesterday, shot a double eagle and an eagle on successive holes. He got a 250 yard drive on the par five, 473 yard 13th, and his spoon shot landed in the cup. On the 387 yard, par four 14th, his drive again was nearly 250 yards, and an eight iron shot brought the eagle.

Ruth Wows 'Em Once Again

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The crowd of 69,136 which packed Yankee stadium yesterday at the Yankees-Senators double header for the army-navy relief funds paid tribute to this group of former baseball greats who performed. Pitcher Walter Johnson and Babe Ruth clasp hands while Benny Bengough, former catcher and now Senators coach, laughs, and Umpire Billy Evans grins approval.

Ruth was the Ruth of old as he hit two "homers" against Johnson's pitching during their appearance between games. Ruth connects with a fast one thrown by Johnson. The catcher is Bengough, and the umpire, Evans.

Cubs Shut Out Reds Twice by 3 to 0 Scores

Marshall and Tipton knocked successive singles with one down. Then Frank McCormick flied to Dallessandro and Haas struck out. In the fifth Eddie Joost and Walters knocked successive singles with one out, Joost reaching third. Then Frey flied to Dallessandro and Mike McCormick forced Walters. In the sixth Tipton and Frank McCormick hit successive singles with one out. Haas went out on an infield tap and Lamanno flied to Novikoff.

The Cubs made nine hits off Paul Derringer in the second game, including three singles by Cavarretta, two of which drove in runs.

Warneke Comes Home.

There were two out in the Cub fifth when the game saw its second productive splurge. After Merullo and Bob Sturgeon had supplied infield outs, Warneke singled to center, went to third on Hack's single to right, and scored on Cavarretta's single to center.

Cavarretta's bat again functioned productively after two were out in the seventh. Sturgeon singled with one down, paused while Warneke flied out, went to third on Stan Hack's second single, and scored on Cavarretta's single to left, his third safe one in a row.

They're Played Quickly.

The victory in the second game was the 12th for the Cubs in 18 meetings with the Reds this year. It was the Reds' 10th loss in their last 11 games of National league competition.

The first game yesterday was played in 1 hour and 45 minutes, the second in 1 hour and 28 minutes.

* * *

The Cubs will rest today in preparation for the impending series with the Phils, which opens with a single game tomorrow afternoon. The Cubs still remember the Phils trimmed them in both games of a double header July 26. In the first game that day Clyde McCullough busted three home runs for all the Cubs' runs and hasn't bashed another since.

There will be a special Salvage Ladies' day at Wrigley field on Tuesday, Sept. 1, when the Chicago Cubs play the New York Giants. To gain admission the women may present any metal article—brass, copper or iron, which will be turned over to Uncle Sam's scrap metal campaign.

Theirs is the job of carrying supplies to our fighting forces. They get little or no rest... little or none is needed. Ruggedly built, they can "take it."

And what a job they're doing! Into them go tons and tons of vital war materials. Their destination? Makes little difference. A hundred mile jaunt or a 3,000 mile journey, the result is the same—needed supplies for the men who man the guns.

The rolling stock of America's railroads was never in finer condition than now, and here at "North Western" we consider it our sacred duty to keep it that way—for America's fighting men and for you. LYONS DEFEATS INDIANS, 3 TO 1; WADE LOSES, 1-0 made one of those diving, rolling catches and by that time Moses was approaching the plate so was easily doubled off second by a throw to Mack. Then the Sox found Smith so tough they didn't get another man as far as third until the ninth.

Three Runs in Ninth Win for Ted and Sox.

Keltner's Double Wasted.

Lyons didn't have much in the way of annoyance during the first five innings. Keltner nicked him for a double with two gone in the first inning, so he fanned Heath to restore quiet. Heath repaid by singling and going to second on Moses' fumble with one out in the fouth, but Uncle Ted subdued Fleming on a fly ball and struck out Manager Boudreau. Then Weatherly doubled with one out in the sixth, went to third on Keltner's out and home on Tresh's passed ball.

A pass to Moses was the first bit of flavoring tossed into the Sox decisive ninth. Hoag let go a terrific ground hugging liner that Boudreau was lucky to knock down. He couldn't recover in time to prevent it from becoming a hit. The Indians figured Appling was going to bunt, but he didn't. He took a nice, slow poke at Smith's first pitch and sent it down the left field line for a double, Moses scoring the tying run.

Kennedy Replaces Hoag.

Hoag's ailing leg was acting up by the time he reached third so Bob Kennedy, also a leg casualty, supplanted him. Wright was passed purposely and Kuhel sent a fly to Hockett on which Kennedy scored and the other runners advanced. Wells walked and Tresh followed with a fly on which Appling skidded across the plate.

SECOND GAME

When Kolloway opened the second game with a two bagger the Sox probably didn't figure that hits off Bagby were going to be few and far between. Anyway, Kolloway didn't and the Sox didn't turn up another blow until Wright tripled with two out in the fourth. He died on Kuhel's pop foul. The next hit was a single by Kuhel with two gone in the seventh and after he had moved up one peg on a bad throw by Bagby the inning ended with Wells fanning. Kolloway singled with two out in the eighth and Moses opened the ninth with the fourth hit off Bagby, but nothing developed.

Jake in Jam in Seventh.

Wade didn't have a peaceful moment in the first six innings, but the annoyance was only of a mild order. However, the seventh put Whistling Jake in a real jam. With one out, Weatherly doubled, Bagby beat out a scratch roller, and Boudreau walked. Hockett grounded to Kuhel, who whipped the ball to Appling for a force at second. Appling heaved it back to first and there was Wade awaiting the ball to complete a double play. The only hits he yielded thereafter were the two that whipped him in the tenth.

Nice Going, Ted!

KIDNAPER FREES MODEL, MARRIED MAN IN CHICAGO

Woman Raped Twice on Drive from Detroit.

A blonde fashion model and a married business man, both of Detroit, reported to Detroit police yesterday that they had been kidnaped in downtown Detroit Friday night and driven to Chicago by a man they believe to be an ex-convict. The model said she was raped twice by their captor before they were released on the Chicago south side.

The avowed victims of the kidnaping are the model, who is 25 years old, and William Sheldon, 27. Sheldon has a tire sales business in Detroit and lives at Elizabeth Lake, near Pontiac, Mich.

Freed at 75th and Halsted.

Police said the pair told them that the woman was permitted to leave the car at 75th and Halsted streets in Chicago early Saturday morning, and that Sheldon was freed two blocks away. The kidnaper told Sheldon his expensive car would be found in the neighborhood, and drove away.

Sheldon found the car, according to Detroit police, saw the model in the vicinity, and took her back to Detroit.

Chicago police and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents are coöperating with the Detroit police in the search for the kidnaper.

Lieut. Marvin Lane of the Detroit police said the model called on him at 11 p. m. Saturday and told her story.

Seized Leaving Restaurant.

She said she and Sheldon were leaving a restaurant when the kidnaper sprang from behind shrubbery with a revolver in either hand. He forced them into the rear seat, where he handcuffed Sheldon and bound her with rope. The kidnaper drove off with them, remarking that he had been in prison a long time.

He drove to a part of Detroit they did not recognize, the model said, left them in the car, and went into a building, returning shortly carrying a traveling bag. He then headed the car toward Chicago.

Later he removed the ropes and handcuffs and took them into a roadside restaurant, where he bought sandwiches and coffee.

Day by Day on the Farm

By GAIL COMPTON

Heat Helps Corn.

Aug. 23, 1942.

NORTHERN Illinois corn fields have benefited greatly from the hot weather of the last few days. Much of the crop had been retarded by wet, cool weather and needed a hot spell to bring its development up to normal.

Crop experts believe that if the hot weather holds while the kernels are filling out the state yield may be increased.

High Temperatures Ideal.

Aug. 1 estimates are for a yield of 47.5 bushels per acre as compared with 52.5 bushels in 1941. Total production is set at 381,282,000, or 20 million bushels below last year.

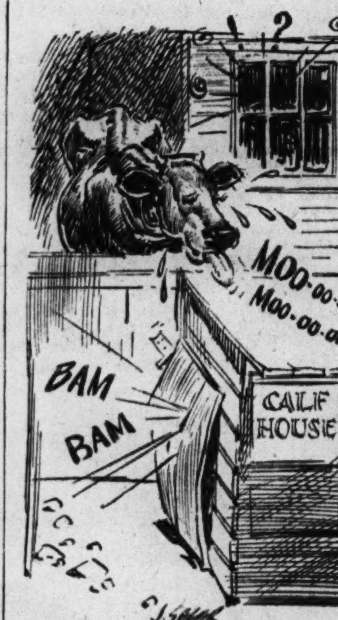
Temperatures ranging in the 80s and 90s are ideal for ripening the corn. Cool weather would hold back the development and place the crop in danger of being nipped by an early frost.

In the central part of the state farmers have reported that early planted corn is beginning to dent and more hot weather will help to assure a good crop.

At the Tribune farm the corn is ripening rapidly under the stimulus of high temperatures. Ears stripped at random in several of the fields showed the kernels well formed and full. The kernels are rich yellow in color and the ears show a good proportion of cob. Most of the stalks carry from two to three large, well formed ears.

Weaning Costs Sleep.

Some of the farm residents spent a sleepless night recently as a result of the weaning of the Shorthorn bull calf that was born six months ago. Proper methods of weaning called for shutting the little fellow away from its mother except for three periods during the day when it should be permitted to nurse. Accordingly, the calf was penned up in a wire enclosure where it could watch its mother grazing. The cow was upset and refused to stray from the calf and graze with the rest of the herd. At night the calf was locked in a small barn that opened into the enclosure.



Unable to see its offspring, the cow leaned against the barn and made the night hideous with bellows, moans, stampings and by butting the wall. The calf added to the discord. The farm manager will get his own way, however. The cow now resides several pastures away and the calf is becoming reconciled to its fate.

The same fate is in store for the other little bull calf, altho it will be some time before it is weaned. The two young bulls are the only additions to the purebred herd so far but more are expected soon.

TAFT URGES 10% SALES LEVY TO BALK INFLATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—Advocating a general 10 per cent sales tax, Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., O.], a member of the senate finance committee, tonight told a radio audience that the 6 billion 270 million dollar tax bill passed by the house is inadequate to prevent "the worst kind of inflation." Taft was a speaker on Theodore Granik's American Forum of the Air, broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Altho the house bill is designed to raise a total of 22 billion 600 million dollars a year, including the 6¼ billion of new revenue, the government plans to spend 77 billion dollars a year, or 3½ times as much, Sen. Taft said.

Two-Thirds Escape Tax.

"The trouble with the bill," he continued, "is that it fails to reach two-thirds of the people's income. Out of a total of 95 billion dollars of net income received by 130 million individuals, 36 billion dollars, or 37 per cent, escapes taxation altogether. It isn't even shown on any income tax return. About 32½ billion dollars more is exempt under the personal exemptions, earned income credit, and credit for dependents.

"Only 26½ billion of income out of the 95 billion, or 28 per cent, pays income taxes. The total paid by 130 million people is 2½ billion less than what we are collecting from business corporations. About half of what we do get from individual incomes comes from those with incomes of more than $10,000 a year.

All Must Coöperate.

"This war is being fought for the benefit of everybody in the United States. I don't believe there is any one who isn't willing and able to contribute 10 per cent of his income. Of course the wealthier people can stand a much heavier burden, and the rates in this bill properly go up to 88 per cent. But we can't win this war unless every one coöperates in furnishing money as they are coöperating in furnishing men.

"My view is that the best method of reaching all the income is thru a sales tax.

"Frankly, I think the opposition to the sales tax is grossly exaggerated. I don't find any experts, New Deal or otherwise, who don't agree that the tax burden must be much more widely spread. The very people who are supposed to be making objections will suffer infinitely more from the inevitable inflation of prices which must result unless we raise more taxes."

Taft's plea for a sales tax was supported by J. Cheever Cowdin, representing the National Association of Manufacturers. Opposition to the sales tax was expressed by Prof. Erwin N. Griswold of Harvard university, special consultant to the treasury department, and James B. Carey, secretary of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

JEWEL TEA TAX BILL MOUNTS TO EQUAL EARNINGS

28 Week Profits Dip from 1941 Level.

The Jewel Tea company, in a mid-year report to shareholders from general offices in Barrington, disclosed yesterday that taxes for the 28 weeks ended July 18 equaled company profits for the period—$593,752. For the parallel period a year ago net profits were $758,032. The decline reduced common stock earnings to 86 cents a share, from $1.35.

F. J. Lunding.

F. J. Lunding, president, said the company in anticipation of increased rates to be enacted by congress computed its taxes at 50 per cent to cover both income and excess profits charges. In addition, $100,000 was set aside for contingencies, bringing this fund to $500,000.

Profit Margin Reduced.

Altho sales gained 41.18 per cent over the 1941 period, Lunding explained that the rate of gross margin was lower because of price ceilings.

Earnings also were affected by government restrictions limiting distribution of coffee to 75 per cent and tea to 50 per cent of 1941 volumes, he said.

Lunding said shortages of materials and federal restrictions forced the company to suspend an expansion program decided on in 1940. The company operated 1,613 sales routes on July 18, compared with 1,668 a year ago, and 154 food stores, against 147.

Mail Order Profit Gains.

The Chicago Mail Order company reported net profit of $201,515 for the six months ended July 3. In the corresponding period a year ago, the company had a net loss of $88,395. Sales were $15,507,589, representing a gain of 29.79 per cent.

American Smelting and Refining company realized net income of $5,253,641, or $1.60 a common share, in the six months ended June 30, compared with $6,768,817, or $2.29 a share, in the 1941 period. Taxes were estimated at $9,574,535, against $7,038,738 a year ago.

STATE'S INDUSTRIAL EMPLOYMENT, WAGE PAYMENTS INCREASE

Employment in 6,505 Illinois industrial and business establishments increased an average of 0.8 per cent between June 15 and July 15, the Illinois department of labor reported yesterday. Pay rolls were up 0.7 per cent.

The 6,505 establishments on July 15 had 818,566 employés whose average weekly earnings were $35.72.

Records of the building construction industry showed increases of more than 30 per cent in number of employés and in wage payments. The department said expansion of work on war and housing projects more than offset a decline in work not connected with the war effort.

Permits for 2,813 building projects requiring an outlay of $6,034,804 were issued in 162 Illinois cities in July. The value represented a gain of 66 per cent over the June total, but a drop of 66 per cent from that of July, 1941.

Frenchmen Aid Allies Toward Air Supremacy Thru Welding

BY CECIL LE BOY.

The aircraft industry, striving to meet demands for faster, lighter, and stronger military planes, petitioned the war department in 1939 to bring to this country four French brothers who had developed a revolutionary welding process advantageous in plane construction.

The brothers, David, Maurice, Sam, and Mario Sciaky, had been the successful founders and operators of three companies bearing their name. One company was in Paris, another in Berlin, and the third in London.

Mario was the first to come to the United States. He brought one of the Sciaky welding machines which was shipped to the Douglas Aircraft company in California, where heavy demands on electric power facilities had made the machine's conservation of power essential.

Operate Chicago Plant.

An ordinary 220 volt power line was carried to a small shed, and there Mario gave the first United States demonstration of the welder he and his brothers had developed.

Today, the Sciaky brothers are operating in a new, large plant on 67th street near Cicero avenue. There skilled technicians turn out Sciaky welders which already are playing a vital rôle in the production of air and surface ships in the United States and England.

Sciaky welders operate from a 220 volt power line, using less electricity than the ordinary toaster. Much of the welding apparatus formerly used required a 440 volt power line.

The welding machine has proved beneficial to the aircraft industry in other respects. Excess weight is cut down thru the elimination of rivets in seam and spot welding. The Sciaky process permits welding of almost all metals or combinations of metals, particularly the lighter types, which was not possible before.

Materials used in solutions for cleaning metals to be welded no longer are necessary. The Sciaky machine produces heat intense enough to oxidize any foreign matter on the surfaces to be welded.

Tests by aircraft makers have shown the weld to be stronger than the metal itself. The machine can do the work of four or five men, it was said. The process is patented and used exclusively by the Sciaky brothers. Nearly all the machines in use are operated by the aircraft and shipbuilding industries. Because of war censorship the number of machines in use and a more detailed explanation of their operation cannot be disclosed.

The Sciaky brothers, ranging in age from 35 to 43, began production in this country thru the coöperation of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company of Chicago, which leased facilities to them in 1940.

Operations Expanded.

Operations have expanded so rapidly construction of the new plant became necessary. David Sciaky is the technical and electrical expert of the group. The other brothers conduct the business.

Altho the London plant is still in operation, the companies in Berlin and France were lost to the enemy. Some machines were seized, but the brothers are said to be the only ones possessing the secret of construction and knowledge of the technical principles involved.

The Sciaky welder was developed in France in 1934. Since production began in this country, many improvements have been developed and additional uses for the machine found.

Brokers' Fiscal Statements to Be Simplified

Standard, simplified forms for use of brokerage and investment firms in reporting required information on their financial condition are expected to be adopted tomorrow at a meeting in the Chicago office of the Securities and Exchange commission, it was reported yesterday.

James W. Treanor Jr., director of the SEC trading and exchange division, announced from SEC headquarters in Philadelphia that the step was designed to streamline the reports of securities firms handling other persons' money.

Treanor said that a short form was likely to be adopted for use of firms doing only a cash business with the public—the information on financial condition designed to satisfy the demands of national and state regulatory bodies, exchanges, and securities associations of which the firms are members.

A longer form was considered likely for larger firms, but much duplication of effort was expected to be avoided in reporting periodically to the various agencies. The only remaining step in the program, Treanor said, will be formal acceptance by the SEC, the National Association of Securities Commissioners, and representatives of the industry.

The development, he said, is one phase of a collaboration program announced recently by Ganson Purcell, SEC chairman.

Union to Ignore Ceremony in War Plant's 'E' Award

Kearny, N. J., Aug. 23 [Special].—Walter Snell, treasurer of the Western Electric Employés association, said today that members of the union had "declined to participate" in ceremonies Wednesday in the award of the army-navy "E" pennant for excellence in war production at the Kearny plant. The Western Electric company, Snell said, had "failed to meet army and navy requirements for the award, specifically in connection with maintenance of fair labor standards."

WORTHLESS SECURITIES.

I own shares of stock which have had no apparent value for several years. I would like to claim a loss from these securities on my income tax. How would I determine whether these shares are worthless, and if so, when they became of no value?—J. L.

Answer: For income tax purposes the commissioner of internal revenue rules in what year a particular security became worthless. If a taxpayer claims a loss from a security believed to be of no value, and no ruling by the department has been made previously, an investigation is made of that security to determine its value or when it became worthless. Under the present internal revenue code losses of this type are allowed only for the year in which the security was ruled worthless by the internal revenue department.

Information about previous rulings can be obtained from the valuation section of the department of internal revenue at Washington, D. C.

THIRD LARGEST.

How does National Can corporation rank in the industry and is war work compensating for curtailment of production of normal output?—K. D.

Answer: This company is the third largest domestic producer of metal containers. The company reported recently that increasing production of war materials is compensating for curtailment of normal output.

NATIONAL CASH REGISTER.

What was the price range for National Cash Register common last year and what did the company earn per share in that period?—H. K.

Answer: National Cash Register company common stock ranged from 10 to 14⅝ on the New York Stock exchange last year. The company earned $2 per common share in 1941.

MICHIGAN CENTRAL.

CIO Officials Authorized to Call War Plant Strike

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 23 (AP).—CIO employés of the Houde Engineering corporation have empowered their leaders to call a strike "if they deem it necessary," the United Automobile Workers local announced today. The union seeks a collective bargaining agency election at the plant, which has war contracts.

31% OF NATION'S INCOME IS SPENT ON WAR GOODS

Rate of Production Rises by Billions.

Washington, Aug. 23 [Special].—War expenditures constituted 31 per cent of the national income in the second quarter of 1942 compared with 15 per cent in the fourth quarter of 1941, illustrating the progress of war production since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, a department of commerce survey disclosed today.

"In terms of current dollars," the department said, "gross production in the second quarter was flowing at an annual rate of more than 146 billions, against the 1941 total of less than 120 billions and the last quarter 1941 rate of 127 billions. By the second quarter of 1942, national income had reached an annual rate in excess of 112 billions, compared with the 1941 total of less than 95 billions and the rate in the fourth quarter of that year of 103 billions.

Rising Prices a Factor.

"While part of the expansion of both these aggregates is attributable to rising prices, there remains a significant rise in the real output of goods and services. It is estimated that the gross national product in real terms rose 15 per cent from mid-1941 to mid-1942.

"The increase in war output has been secured more thru over-all expansion of output than thru diversion of nonwar production. This makes clear the general character of the task accomplished during the last six months—the closing down of a large number of civilian goods industries. The present six month period should see their conversion to armament production."

SOME FIRMS CURBED

The National Industrial Conference board, a private research organization, reported in a survey yesterday that labor and materials shortages were making it difficult for some companies to maintain production schedules.

"The most important cause of slowdowns in war production is a shortage or erratic flow of raw materials—conditions which have been encountered by about three-fifths of the substantial number of companies included in the survey," the board said. "A shortage of labor is the second most important factor and is mentioned by one-quarter of the reporting companies."

The board said that about one-third of the executives canvassed reported curtailment of either shift operations or the number of hours worked.

"For the most part," the board said, "the reductions have been small but in some instances slow-downs have been substantial. Many of those reporting no curtailment foresee the necessity of such action if present difficulties continue."

SHIPYARDS TAKE A LARGER SHARE OF STEEL OUTPUT

Pressure to build cargo ships is diverting a larger tonnage of steel for this purpose than was planned when President Roosevelt announced the country's 1942 war production goals, the magazine Steel said yesterday.

"Had the original aim of 8 million deadweight tons of shipping facilities been adhered to additional steel would have been available for war plants whose schedules have become irregular thru temporary interruptions of the flow of materials," the survey reported.

"The whole matter settles down to a question of determining the order of our most important war needs and dividing the material supply to satisfy them, even tho idle plants follow in the wake of the process."

National steelmaking operations last week rose one-half point to 97½ per cent of capacity on small gains by the five largest districts, altho several areas curtailed production, the magazine said.

OFFICIAL PUBLICATION.

Pursuant to law in such case made and provided, public notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment will be submitted to the electors of the State of Illinois for adoption or rejection at the General Election to be held on November 3, 1942.

Article IX.

Sec. 1. The General Assembly shall provide such revenue as may be needful by levying a tax, by valuation, so that every person and corporation shall pay a tax in proportion to the value of his, her, or its property, such value to be ascertained by some person or persons, to be elected or appointed in such manner as the General Assembly shall direct, and not otherwise; but the General Assembly shall have power to tax peddlers, auctioneers, brokers, hawkers, merchants, commission merchants, showmen, jugglers, innkeepers, grocery keepers, liquor dealers, toll bridges, ferries, insurance, telegraph and express interests or business, venders of patents, and persons or corporations owning or using franchises and privileges, in such manner as it shall from time to time direct by general law, uniform as to the class upon which it operates.

Notwithstanding the foregoing requirement that a tax shall be uniform as to the class upon which it operates, the General Assembly shall have power to exempt from the provisions of any Act imposing an occupational or privilege tax the business of selling food for human consumption, and in providing for such exemption the General Assembly shall have power to define the word "food."

EXPLANATION OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

The proposed Section 1 of Article IX of the Constitution differs from the present Section 1 of Article IX only by reason of the addition of the second paragraph, which is entirely new and which provides that the General Assembly shall have the power, in imposing an occupation or privilege tax, to exempt the business of selling food for human consumption, and gives the General Assembly the power to define the word "food."

REASONS WHY PROPOSED AMENDMENT SHOULD BE RATIFIED BY THE VOTERS.

The Constitution requires that the General Assembly, in levying an occupational tax, shall make the same uniform as to the class upon which it operates. Therefore, the General Assembly has no power to exempt food sold for human consumption, but must impose an occupational tax on all retailers, or none. By giving the General Assembly power to exempt sales of food from the operation of the sales tax, a way is opened to remedy the injustice existing under the present law.

For the proposed amendment to Section 1 of Article IX of the Constitution.	Yes
	No

In order for the proposed amendment to be adopted it must receive a majority of all the votes cast at the general election, not just a majority of all the votes on the proposed amendment. All who neglect to vote on the proposed amendment are really voting against it. Each voter of Illinois is urged to study this question carefully and to vote according to his or her best judgment.

This is a new and detailed map of the Solomon Islands, where American forces on Aug. 7 launched a major counteroffensive against the Japanese in the Pacific. The Japanese had occupied the principal of these islands last spring. The map includes those islands of the Solomon group that constitute part of a British protectorate and also those that once belonged to Germany but were mandated to Australia after World War I. The inset map at lower left shows on an enlarged scale Tulagi Island, site of an important settlement, and contiguous areas, where much fighting has been reported. The inset map at upper right shows a large part of the Pacific ocean, with dates indicating when the Japanese seized certain of the islands therein.
